President orders massive federal energy cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today ordered federal agencies to reduce energy consumption by buying cars that have better gas mileage than Congress has mandated for nongovernment cars.

He also ordered the agencies to cut energy use in existing federal buildings by 20 per cent and in new buildings by 45 per cent. These reductions, due by 1985, would be based on 1975 energy consumption.

The White House, announcing the order signed today by the President, said the changes could save the country about $344 million a year.

Carter ordered the agencies to buy cars that would insure the fuel economy of the federal fleet exceeds the average fuel economy requirements under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act by at least two miles per gallon in 1978 and four miles per gallon in 1980.

The act requires an average of 18 miles per gallon by 1978 and 20 m.p.g. by 1980

The changeover would take place at a rate of more than 15,000 vehicles each year.

The General Services Administration reports the average gas mileage of major agency automobile fleets in fiscal 1976 was 13 m.p.g. The government's housekeeping agency said the United States, which owned about 95,000 automobiles in calendar 1975, replaces about one-sixth of them a year.

The White House said the Federal Energy Administration estimated that the switch would save from 200 to 400 barrels of oil daily by 1980 and from 500 to 700 barrels of oil each day by 1985.

The White House said the 400,000 federally owned buildings used up the equivalent of 375,000 barrels of oil a day in 1975.

The President's order foresees improvements based on insulation, modification of heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, installation of storm windows, heat recovery systems and solar energy systems.

The White House said the modifications could save the equivalent of about 70,000 barrels of oil daily.

PVMWD will ask voters to approve $26 million in bonds

Pomona Valley Municipal Water District board of directors has voted to submit to district voters a $26 million general obligation bond measure in the Nov. 8 election.

This announcement was made today by William C. Leech, district president, who said that proceeds would be used for construction of new treatment, storeage, and transmission facilities to provide PVMWD's eight member agencies with an adequate supply of improved quality water for the next 10 years.

"The bond would be repaid over 25 years, thus assuring that future district residents will pay their fair share of project costs," Leech said.

"For every month we postpone voting on this $26 million bond proposition, the cost of the project will increase at the rate of $205,000 per month due to escalating costs of labor and material," added Leech.

Pomona Valley Municipal Water District is a member agency of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, serving the communities of Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Pomona, Walnut, Diamond Bar, Rowland Heights, Covina, and Glendora

Peace without moral compromise: Carter

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — President Carter today declared his determination to work with the Soviet Union for a constructive and peaceful world order while preserving "the moral bearings of American foreign policy."

In a speech to Southern legislators that focused almost entirely on U.S.-Soviet relations, Carter took note of recent "negative comments" from Russian leaders about his approach to arms limitations and "more general" issues.

"If these comments are based on a misconception of our motives, we will redouble our efforts to make them clear," the President said. "But if they are merely designed as propaganda to put pressure on, let no one doubt that we will persevere.

"What matters ultimately is whether we can create a relationship of cooperation that will be rooted in the national interests of both sides," Carter said. "We shape our policies to accommodate the changing world, and we hope the Soviets will do the same."

Carter left Washington aboard Air Force One shortly after noon, marking his first tour of the South since entering the White House. Besides the Southern legislators, the President planned to meet the citizens of Yazoo County, Miss., and visit an oil rig off the Louisiana Coast.

The President's speech to members of the Southern Legislative Conference was portrayed by White House officials as a major effort toward creating a more positive atmosphere for U.S.-Soviet relations in the wake of several sour exchanges in recent months.

At the same time, it appeared aimed also at assuring other Western leaders, some of whom have criticized Carter's tack toward Russia, that the administration has a long-term strategy for dealing with the Soviets.

"As I pointed out in my most recent press conference," Carter said, "a period of debate, disagreement and probing was inevitable. Our goal has not been to reach easy or transient agreements, but to find solutions that are meaningful, balanced, and lasting.

"We cannot overlook the way our fate is bound to that of other nations," Carter said. "It is a new world, in which we cannot afford to be narrow in our vision, limited in our foresight, or selfish in our purpose."

Egypt-Libya border battle erupts

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libyan and Egyptian armored and air forces engaged in a massive clash along their desert border today, resulting in the destruction of 40 Libyan tanks and two planes, Cairo radio reported.

Israel radio also reported there was a battle. But Libya had no immediate comment on the reported fighting.

Cairo radio quoted a military spokesman as saying that 30 Libyan army trucks were destroyed and 12 members of the 9th Libyan armored division were taken prisoner along with 30 saboteurs.

Today's clash climaxed a series of border incidents in recent days.

Egypt has accused Libya of planting a series of bombs and conducting other sabotage in Egypt.

The two countries have contended for influence in the Arab world, leading to confrontations in Lebanon and the Horn of Africa.

Since the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, they have quarreled over how to approach that conflict. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has urged reconvening a Mideast conference in Geneva while Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has opposed compromise with Israel.

The two nations massed troops at their border in the past but the confrontations had not led to large-scale fighting. An Israeli government source said the African country of Togo recently tried to mediate their dispute but was unsuccessful.

The two nations have differed over the Lebanese civil war and are currently competing for influence in the Sudan and Chad. News media in each country play up reports of internal troubles in the other and Egypt has repeatedly accused Libya of fomenting disorder in Egypt.

Cairo radio said no Egyptians were killed but several were wounded and one truck was destroyed.

It gave the following account of the battle, which it said had ended by afternoon:

"A force of Libyan armored cars supported by artillery opened fire on a Egyptian military post at Salum, forcing Egyptian troops to confront the aggressor and chase them back west of the village of Musaid (on the Libyan side of the border).

"Near Salum, the Egyptian force was able to destroy 40 tanks and 30 Libyan army trucks, to take 12 military prisoners from the 9th Libyan armored division as well as 30 saboteurs.

Salum is about 350 miles west of Cairo near the Mediterranean Sea.

"Libyan planes tried to raid our posts. (But) Egyptian air defenses downed two planes. With the entrance of the Libyan air force, it was inevitable that the Egyptian air force also should become engaged to protect the Egyptian ground forces. Fighting ended at 3 o'clock this afternoon."

The radio said three Libyan "provocative and sabotage acts" had led up to Thursday morning's fighting.

The flare-up began on July 12, Cairo radio said, when a four-man Libyan sabotage squad was arrested after crossing the border.

FBI details Florida spy plot

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Two men accused of aiding Soviet bloc spies planned to use a cabin cruiser to smuggle components of the topsecret U.S. cruise missile to Soviet agents in Cuba within the next two weeks, the FBI says.

Carl Weischenberg, 33, a West German who officials said is awaiting trial in his own country on charges of high treason, and Carl John Heiser, 32, of Highland Beach, Fla., were arrested Wednesday at the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport. Officials said Weischenberg was preparing to board a plane for Freeport, in the Bahamas, where he has been living.

They were formally charged with "acting as agents of East Germany and the Soviet Union without prior notification to the secretary of state," a charge less severe than espionage because the government wants to expedite the case, a knowledgeable source said.

"When you have a foreign national leaving the country, you want to act quickly," the source said.

The charge carries a fine of $5,000 and up to 10 years in jail.

Heiser and Weischenberg were ordered held without bond after a brief hearing before U.S. Magistrate Peter Palermo in Miami. Another hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

The FBI said Weischenberg had offered Heiser $250,000 for components of the cruise missile, a pilotless weapon which can fly a preprogrammed route to its target at extremely low levels. It did not say how Heiser would have gotten such components.

President Carter has chosen the weapon as one of the United State's first-line offensive weapons of the future.

In a 14-page affidavit, the FBI said Weischenberg presented Heiser with "shopping lists" for materials, including IBM microfiche cards, manuals and tapes, Memorex computer programs, Bendix computer drive shafts and nuclear fuels.

FBI officials did not say what the various computer cards, tapes and programs contained. IBM, Memorex and Bendix are major defense contractors.

"Both of these individuals had at their disposal unlimited sources of money," said Ennis.

PORTAGE, Mich. (AP) — When a 12-year-old diabetic girl passed out on the sidewalk of this Kalamazoo suburb, no one stopped to help. But someone stole her clarinet.

Julie TenBrink was on her way to a music lesson when she collapsed.

Her mother, Elaine TenBrink, said Wednesday the girl apparently passed out from an insulin reaction. The child was unhurt except for scratches.

"She must have lain there a good half hour," Mrs. TenBrink said. "You'd think someone would have come out and helped."

Julie, who has undergone treatment for diabetes since she was 4, came home saying, "I fell asleep and I lost my clarinet," her mother reported.

Johnstown digging out: at least 33 dead

2,000 are homeless: many missing

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Makeshift cleanup crews moved into the devastated valleys around this flood-stricken southwestern Pennsylvania steel town today searching for bodies in the muddy rubble.

(More stories and pictures on Pages 3 and 10)

Authorities said at least 33 people were known dead, but there were widespread reports of missing persons. Earlier, Civil Defense officials had said 37 people had died. They blamed the erroneous report on confusion about missing persons and poor communications.

"We're expecting more bodies, we're sure of it," said Arthur Keiper, chief deputy coroner of Cambria County.

Power, which had been blacked out causing a near-total breakdown in communications, was gradually being restored.

LAUREL RUN DAM BROKE SWEEPING VICTIMS AWAY DOWNSTREAM

U.S. Rep. John Murtha, DPa., estimated damage around $100 million. President Carter declared the area a disaster area, making it eligible for federal aid.

The downpour Wednesday sent small creeks and rivers over their banks across a 70-mile stretch of the Conemaugh River Valley, including this city of 41,000.

Civil Defense officials estimated 2,000 persons were homeless in Cambria County alone. It was not known how many were dislodged elsewhere.

It was the third major flood in 88 years in Johnstown, whose name became synonymous with disaster after the Johnstown Flood of 1889 killed 2,200 people.

Then, as in this week's tragedy, the steep green valleys channeled mountain runoff into the Conemaugh River and Little Stony Creek and created sudden, killing thrusts of churning water.

In the 1889 flood, the earthen South Fork dam broke 14 miles upstream, and the water — with nowhere to go to vent its power — was still a raging wall of death when it arrived in Johnstown 57 minutes later.

A temporary morgue was set up at East Hills Elementary School just outside the city.

The flooding struck in Bedford, Cambria, Clearfield, Indiana, Jefferson, Somerset and Westmoreland counties.

About 8.5 inches of rain fell between about 9 p.m. Tuesday and 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Crawford County, some 100 miles to the northwest of the Johnstown area, suffered flash flooding and heavy damage when it received about four inches of rain in the same period.

The Laurel Run Dam north of Johnstown broke and washed out 10 houses downstream. At least 25 persons were reported missing in West Taylor Township.

Carl Thomas, 59, an asphalt plant superintendent, said he had found the body of his brother-in-law, but his sister, brother and sister-in-law, their four children and a granddaughter were still missing.

Thomas' 80-year-old mother had a stroke prior to the flood. "We don't know how to tell her," he said.

Gov. Milton Shapp toured the area by helicopter with U.S. Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., and declared an extreme state of emergency.

Many victims spent Wednesday night in emergency centers set up in fire halls and college dormitories.

The rain came from a storm that hung over the area as people slept.

"That thunderstorm didn't move last night. I watched it sit there on the radar for six or seven hours," said a spokesman for the National Weather Service.

By nightfall, the swollen streams had returned to their banks and cleanup operations appeared ready to begin.

"Roads are washed out. There's mud in the streets and they tell us you need a four-wheel drive vehicle to get through the city of Johnstown," said Towsey from the Civil Defense command post in Ebensburg.

"We want to get in and clean up the muck before the sun bakes it and we have to chip it out."

Shapp and Heinz asked the White House for federal disaster relief.

"The damage is devastating," Heinz said. "It is easily in excess of $100 million with roads destroyed and trucks tossed around like matchsticks."

California fire season 88% better than normal

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California forests face the most critical fire danger in decades because of the drought, but the record for the first half of the 1977 fire season is 88 per cent better than normal, officials say.

"We can't figure it out, except people are afraid to use the woods, and the ones who do are very cautious," Bob Tribble, spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service, said in an interview Wednesday.

Tribble said so far this year, 474 fires have burned 3,967 acres of U.S. Forest Service lands in California. The average total by mid-July over the past five years has been about 1,400 fires and 30,000 to 40,000 acres.

He said the number of campers, hikers and other visitors to the U.S. Forest Service's 25 million acres of California brush and timber land is 60 to 75 per cent below normal.

Natural causes such as lightning account for fewer than one forest fire in 10. The rest are set accidentally or intentionally by people.

The California Department of Forestry says the acreage it has lost this year is the lowest mid-July total in 14 years.

Since Jan. 1, the department has fought 3,336 fires which damaged 6,669 acres of brush and timber. That acreage figure is 88 per cent below the average of the past five years.

By July 15 last year, fires had blackened nearly 120,000 acres of the 33 million acres of California land protected by the Department of Forestry.

"It's the result of a good distribution of late spring rains, extra fire prevention efforts, extra equipment, favorable weather and a lot of luck," said department spokesman Robert Lix.

Combined, the two fire services are responsible for protecting 57 per cent of California's land area, and nearly all of its wooded areas.

Tax might shut down Disneyland

ANAHEIM (AP) — Fantasyland, Adventureland and all the rest of Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom may have to shut down during the fall and winter if city residents approve a six per cent tax on amusement.

Disneyland officials said Wednesday that the tax might mean higher admission prices or the park might have to give up its worldwide reputation for being open year-round.

"We can't just say that we would increase prices," said Disneyland's marketing director, William Long. "It might make more sense to close in our marginal months like early December and early January."

Disneyland usually cuts back its hours beginning in late September and is closed on Mondays during autumn and winter.

The campaign to put the tax on the municipal ballot next April was started by a group of citizens called COMBAT, Citizen's Organization Mobilized to Balance Anaheim Taxes.

Both Disneyland and the California Angels, which would also be affected by the tax at their home stadium, said they won't oppose the effort to gather the 8,130 signatures needed to put the measure on the ballot. The fight will come at the polls, they said.

Ceiling on taxes sure thing?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Some kind of limit on the amount of revenue the state could raise from the taxpayers seems to be a shoe-in for the property tax relief bill now being negotiated.

Members of the Senate-Assembly conference committee on the bill appeared willing Wednesday to link the ceiling to statewide personal income — but nothing was yet decided.

Under the chairmanship of Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, no votes were taken on the key issues.

A staff member, Jonathan Lewis, said the negotiating procedures are "sort of like a Quaker meeting. If there is no objection it's implied consent."

Personal income has been increasing statewide about 10 per cent a year.

The legislative analyst estimates that state revenue would jump about 12 per cent a year without any limits.

The revenue limit concept was pushed by former Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, as part of his 1973 tax control ballot measure, which had heavy Democratic opposition.

The committee now negotiating the plan is dominated by Democrats.

Under the plan being considered, any revenue collections over the limit could be used to cut state taxes, provide additional property tax relief, or pay for other state program for whatever the governor and legislature agree there's an emergency.

State briefs

Female hitchhikers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When a man picks up a female hitchhiker in a metropolitan area, "it would not be unreasonable" for him to think the woman would agree to sexual relations, an appellate court judge ruled Wednesday.

That was part of the warning issued to a female hitchhiker by Justice Lynn D. Compton as he reversed the conviction of a man accused of raping her.

The ruling was based on faulty jury instruction, but Compton, a former Los Angeles chief deputy district attorney, aimed his words at lone women who seek rides with strangers.

"The lone female hitchhiker in the absence of an emergency situation...advises all who pass by that she is willing to enter the vehicle with anyone who stops," said Compton.

He added that "in so doing (the hitchhiker) advertises that she has less concern for the consequence than the average female."

"Under such circumstances," Compton continued, "it would not be unreasonable for a man in the position of the defendant here to believe that the female would consent to sexual relations."

Accident at circus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A circus high-wire performer who fell 40 feet and landed on an usher was reported in serious condition today with a broken elbow, cracked ribs and a ruptured spleen.

The high-wire act of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus was nearly half-completed at the Forum Wednesday night when Daniel Acosta, 30, slipped and plummeted to the floor.

Acosta fell atop George Hoppe, 27, an usher, who suffered an injured back. A 14-year-old girl in the audience, Silvia Ruddaf of Monterey Park, suffered an injured foot when she was hit by a balance pole used by Acosta.

Both Hoppe and Miss Ruddaf were treated at Inglewood Hospital and released.

Acosta was reported in serious condition at Centinela Valley Hospital.

Forum officials said Acosta slipped while attempting a backward somersault. He had no net below him.

Not for religious groups

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Public schools are no longer permitted to lease vacant classrooms to religious organizations, says state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger.

Younger issued an opinion Wednesday saying that in 1976, the legislature authorized school districts to make vacant classrooms available to outside groups to give students contact with the "world of work."

He said leasing classrooms to religious organizations for religious instruction did not fall within the meaning of those changes, and would violate federal and state constitutional provisions requiring separation of church and state.

The opinion was requested by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose.

Right to die plea made

SANTA ANA (AP) — A Newport Beach woman has filed a suit asking that her paralyzed, blind and comatose 83-year-old mother be permitted to die naturally, instead of being kept alive by doctors.

The suit filed in Orange County Superior Court could be a test case for the state's seven-month-old law permitting persons to be taken off life-sustaining medical equipment if they wish.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mrs. Marie Welday by her daughter and guardian, Marie Leuck.

Midwife bill endorsed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An official of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s administration is endorsing legislation to license midwives.

Michael Krisman, deputy director of consumer affairs, said Wednesday the "shortage and maldistribution of obstetrical care has resulted in steeply escalating maternity costs."

Krisman said if only 10 per cent of California's expectant mothers chose to use a midwife, the savings would be $20 million a year.

His statement said, "This shortage and maldistribution of obstetricians impacts most heavily upon poor people. Only 37 per cent of all California obstetricians accept Medi-Cal mothers, down from 59 per cent only two years ago."

In 1949, a statute restricted midwife licenses to registered nurses. Only 50 nurses statewide now hold such licenses, said an aide to Assemblyman Gary Hart, D-Santa Barbara, author of the new bill.

Family members may legally practice midwifery, but it is illegal to perform such duties for a fee.

The bill, AB 1896, would allow persons without nursing training to take midwife tests.

Gas terminal approved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has approved an application to build a liquefied natural gas terminal in Los Angeles Harbor.

On a 13-2 vote, the council Wednesday granted a 25-year permit to Western LNG Terminal Co. despite criticism by harbor area residents that it showed "a callous disregard for human life."

The permit, one of many needed by the company from various government agencies before it can begin construction on the major unloading and storage facility, still must be approved by Mayor Tom Bradley.

San Diego may join suit

SAN DIEGO (AP)—County Counsel Donald L. Clark says he will recommend to the Board of Supervisors next week whether San Diego County should join a Los Angeles County suit aimed at rising medical costs for illegal aliens.

Los Angeles County Supervisors earlier this week authorized the suit that blames the federal government for inadequate methods of identifying undocumented aliens.

The suit contends Los Angeles County is spending $50.7 million this year to provide health care for illegal aliens.

Las Vegas-style gambling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians may be able to try their luck at Las Vegas-style gambling without leaving the state if a proposed constitutional amendment is adopted by voters.

Robert W. Wilson of Sherman Oaks filed petitions with the attorney general's office Wednesday to allow the 25-year gambling experiment.

This is the third time Wilson has tried to get the matter before the voters, but the first time he gathered the necessary 500,000 signatures.

Under the proposed amendment, the small towns of Adelanto in San Bernardino County and Lakeport in Lake County would be allowed to have Las Vegas-type casino wagering. Paramutuel horse race betting would be legal anywhere in California.

Adelanto is located just off Interstate 15, the main road Californians take to Las Vegas. Lakeport is located on a similar route to Reno, Nev

A night of terror

SEWARD, Pa. (AP) — "My wife started praying. She was holding onto my belt. I told her to keep praying, because she couldn't swim a lick."

Coal miner Bobby Newman, 42, was recounting his night of horror when the normally tame Conemaugh River drank too much rain and went crazy. It jumped its banks in this little town before dawn Wednesday and smashed a 40-plus trailer court to smithereens.

Newman, his wife, Gloria, and two sons, Bob, 18, and Johnny, 15, were in their mobile home when the filthy, debris-choked water hit.

"There were people screaming, trailers crunching, trees cracking.

"I could see my wife bobbing up and down in the water. She came up one time with oil on her face and I didn't recognize her.

"My two boys and me went under. Then we was able to scramble up a tree. But a trailer that was on fire floated down and struck our tree and knocked us back into the water.

"When they drug me out I saw Bobby up another tree and he said, 'Where's Mom?' I said I can't tell you, Bobby. Your mother's gone as far as I know."

Two men pulled Mrs. Newman out of the water near a foot bridge a mile down from the trailer park. Her two boys also managed to get ashore. Johnny was hospitalized with a leg injury.

'Knew I was gonna die'

DILLTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Ron Allison figured it was the end.

Stranded for 11 hours Wednesday, Allison and two other men literally hung on for life on a bridge across Black Lick Creek after thunderstorms inundated the area.

"I don't know how to swim, I knew I was gonna die. Christ, when I saw that house coming, I figured it was all over," Allison said.

"I was afraid I wasn't gonna live tomorrow or see my kids. I was afraid nobody knew we were up there."

Water had trapped the 36-year-old Allison in his car with Dan Mansell, 25, and Harry Kuzmisky Jr.

Kuzmisky, a diabetic, was rescued from the bridge during the night and taken to a hospital. The others were rescued by early afternoon.

Will tolerate no interference—Jaworski

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski says he will tolerate no interference in an investigation of the alleged Korean influence-buying scandal on Capitol Hill. And he wants it in writing.

The House ethics committee is expected to accept Jaworski's terms today, handing him the job of chief investigator in the disorganized investigation of South Korean efforts to win congressional support by plying lawmakers with money and gifts.

At a news conference Wednesday in Houston, where he has been in private practice since resigning as Watergate prosecutor, Jaworski said he plans to begin work on the investigation on Aug. 15.

"If there is the slightest effort to suppress the investigation, I would not only go to the leadership of the Congress, I would go to the public.

"I don't think it is the leadership of Congress that controls this. What controlled Watergate was the public reaction," said Jaworski.

Jaworski said the promises of independence in the new post would be made official in a congressional resolution before he "came out of the woodwork, so to speak" to take the new job.

Jaworski said the absence of a grand jury in the Korean investigation may make it difficult to obtain certain information. But he added, "I think I will get what I want."

Jaworski was the special Watergate prosecutor who forced public disclosure of so-called "smoking gun" tape that forced former President Richard M. Nixon to resign on Aug. 9, 1974.

On the tape Nixon was heard agreeing with aides that the FBI should be given a false story to steer it away from campaign contributions that were to prove the Watergate burglars were Nixon campaign workers.

Jaworski telephoned Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the House ethics committee to discuss arrangements for taking the new job. The wealthy lawyer said he would serve without pay.

He is replacing Philip A. Lacovara, a former deputy Watergate prosecutor who quit last week after a dispute with Flynt.

Flynt said Jaworski's only requests were that the independence agreement be put in writing and that his law partner, Peter White, be named as special deputy counsel.

Flynt also said he had satisfied himself that neither Jaworski nor his Washington law office have any clients or accounts that might present a conflict of interest with the Korean investigation.

But one committee member, Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., said Jaworski's law firm had lobbied on Capitol Hill on one bill several weeks ago. He said he wants more information on other lobbying by Jaworski's firm.

Car hits tree; 2 cut from Pomona wreckage

Two occupants of a demolished car had to be cut out of their small auto early today after it embedded itself into a tree in Pomona, police said.

Two other persons were injured in additional traffic accidents Wednesday, authorities said.

This morning's crash occurred shortly before 1:30 a.m. in the 300 block of E. Grove Avenue. Police reported that the vehicle went out of control and skidded more than 150 feet on its side before slamming into a large tree.

Inside, officers found the driver, Robert H. Chesnut, 21, lying on top of the passenger, Mark D. Keegan, 16. The auto had struck the tree sideways and the tree penetrated three feet into the vehicle's windshield.

Firemen, using power tools cut away a portion of the 1968-model's roof and removed Chesnut and then Keegan. It took more than an hour to get them both out.

The victims, who lived near the accident scene were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where both were reported in serious condition today. Keegan reportedly had compound leg breaks and arm injuries. Chesnut had a variety of injuries.

A motorcyclist was injured seriously Wednesday night when his motorcycle fell with him at Diana Court west of Titus Street.

The victim, Richard C. Goble, 18, of Pomona, was reported in serious condition today at the hospital. He had scalp cuts and abrasions. Witnesses told police Goble was westbound when the motorcycle hit a dip in the street and fell.

One person was injured slightly in a two-car accident at Valley Boulevard east of Ridgeway Avenue late Wednesday afternoon. Police reported that a car driven by Richard M. Johnson, 17, of Pomona, hit the rear of a stopped car driven by Margaret G. Potter, 55, of Walnut. Johnson complained of pain, but did not require immediate medical attention.

Mathews found guilty in slaying

A West Valley Superior Court jury has found Richard Glen Mathews guilty of first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a 15-year-old Ontario youth near Flora and Virginia Streets in Ontario on Feb. 21.

The jury, after deliberating for a day, brought back the verdict late Wednesday afternoon to Judge Richard Garner. The verdict was read and Mathews remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department pending transfer to the California Institution for Men diagnostic center. Mathews will be sentenced on the charge following probation reports and testing.

Mathews was convicted of murdering Henry Alcala, 15, of Ontario the evening of Feb. 21.

C of C open house

The Montclair Chamber of Commerce will hold an open house Friday at its new office facilities, 10268 Central Ave., Montclair.

The office will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and champagne will be served to visitors.

$1,200 robbery of Upland bank

A lone gunman robbed the Security Pacific Bank in Upland Wednesday afternoon of approximately $1,200 in cash, Upland police reported.

Police said the robber approached a teller at one of the windows and handed her a note saying it was a robbery. The teller told officers the man ordered her to put money from the cash drawer on the counter and not to press any buttons.

She said she placed three packets of money on the counter, which the robber grabbed.

The robber then told the teller to turn around and walk to a back room as if nothing had happened. The teller instead turned around and told another teller to press the alarm button.

Police arrived moments later, but the robber had fled in an unknown direction.

The robber was described as white, 30 to 50 years of age, 5 feet 10, 150 pounds, with long shaggy grey and black hair, a full beard and mustache. He was wearing a blue denim jump suit and sunglasses. He had tattoos on his left arm from the elbow to the wrist.

Police said the robber only simulated a weapon. The teller never actually saw a gun.

Killer heat wave on the way out

By The Associated Press

The nagging heat wave that has polluted air, destroyed crops and killed people and livestock in a 2,000-mile belt from the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies appears to be petering out.

The National Weather Service predicted a cooling trend today from the Great Lakes across to the central plains, where temperatures in the 90s and 100s have been recorded for more than a week.

2 women, 2 girls hurt in Claremont collision

Two Upland women and two small girls suffered painful but not serious injuries in a two-car crash at Foothill and Claremont boulevards in Claremont.

Hurt in the evening rush hour mishap Wednesday were Mrs. Helga M. Kessler, 50, of 1400 W. 13th St.; Mrs. Dianna L. Stevenson, 27, of 1350 San Bernardino Road, and Mrs. Stevenson's two daughters, Nikki, 2, and Mandee, 1.

Claremont Officer Ruben Baltierra said Mrs. Kessler was westbound in a sedan and making a left turn onto Claremont Boulevard and Mrs. Stevenson was eastbound in a van on Foothill when the accident occurred.

The injured were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Traffic in eastbound Foothill lanes was snarled more than a half hour.

On campus

CAL POLY POMONA has honored its retiring faculty members. Nine persons were honored: Henry M. Clanton, Samuel Gendelman, George B. Jenkins, Russell V. Lapp, Werner H. Marti, Jack Pomperoy, Harold P. Skamser, Marion P. Harthill and Clarence H. Jackman.

Clanton, professor emeritus of electrical and electronics engineering, joined the university in 1964 after 20 years in the U.S. Army and two years with Marquardt Corp. in Pomona. A resident of Claremont, Clanton intends to continue research in electronics.

Gendelman, professor emeritus of mathematics, has spent his career teaching mathematics at the University of Wisconsin, USC, Cal State Los Angeles and for 13 years at Cal Poly. He resides in Sylmar.

Jenkins, associate professor of social services, spent nine years at Cal Poly and has also held positions with the State of California and Los Angeles County governments. A resident of Claremont, he intends to continue historical research and writing on the subjects of the California Gold Rush, the American Civil War and Reconstruction.

Lapp, associate professor emeritus of communication arts, intends to be active again in the Los Angeles Press Photographers Association and will move to Glendale from Claremont next spring.

Marti, professor emeritus of history and former chairman of the history department has moved to Bishop after 20 years at the university. He was influential in developing the teaching credential programs for social studies and history.

Pomeroy, associate professor emeritus of engineering services, was a faculty member for 12 years at Cal Poly. He will continue work on a book of calculus applications for engineering students at his home in Ontario.

Skamser, former dean of engineering for 12 years and professor emeritus of electrical and electronics engineering, has spent 20 years at Cal Poly. Skamser is a resident of Walnut Creek.

Two faculty members who are officially retired plan to return to the university as lecturers. Harthill, associate professor emeritus of biological science, on campus since 1968, will continue teaching and researching in the areas of plant ecology and bryology in Southern California. He resides in Claremont.

Jackman, professor emeritus of accounting, will continue teaching. Jackman, a resident of Pomona, developed successful internship programs for accounting students to work in business and industry. Jackman was an auditor general in the U.S. Air Force before coming to the university.

Two student government offices were recently filled at CAL POLY POMONA by the annual spring elections.

The new officers are Associated Students Incorporated (ASI) president Barney Path and vice president Peggy Weis.

Path, 24, an engineering and music major has held two previous offices in student government during his six years at Cal Poly. He was appointed chairman of the university union board in 1977, elected student body vice president in 1976 and ASI campus affairs commissioner.

Path and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Path, reside in Baldwin Park.

Miss Weis, a 21-year-old political science major was appointed last year's academic affairs commissioner.

Prior to this office, she was president of the Political Science Caucus, a student organization on campus. She has also been the ASI student representative to the Academic Deans' Council, Faculty Senate, Academic Standards and Student Affairs.

Miss Weis and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weis, reside in La Verne.

A $2,000 Haynes Faculty Research Grant has been awarded to Robert Dawindoff, assistant professor of history at CLAREMONT GRADUATE SCHOOL.

A CGS faculty committee selected Dawindoff for the award, which is funded by the John Randolph Haynes and Dora Haynes Foundation of Los Angeles.

Dawindoff is doing research for a book, "The Education of John Randolph," which is to be published by W.W. Norton. It will be an extension of his doctoral dissertation at Cornell University. The Society of American Historians presented him the 1975 Allan Nevins Prize for the best written American history dissertation for that work, describing it as an example of "the union of the historian and the artist."

Wing C. Tam, assistant professor of engineering at HARVEY MUDD COLLEGE, spent a week at the Microcomputer Design Institute at the University of Santa Clara recently. He studied the latest developments and applications of microcomputers, one of his areas of interest. Tam's trip was partly funded by a Lilly Endowment grant for faculty improvement and research.

Alvin White was a panelist and had a paper printed at the recent International Conference on Improving University Education at Newcastle upon Tyne, England. He is an associate professor of mathematics at HARVEY MUDD COLLEGE.

The title of his paper was "Humanistic Mathematics, or Mathematics As If People Cared," an appeal to broaden the scope of mathematics teaching to include history, values and aesthetics. This month White will attend a national workshop, sponsored by Lilly Endowment, Inc., to train faculty members in evaluating college programs. The workshop will be in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Donald S. Remer submitted a paper and gave a talk recently at the national meeting of the American Society for Education, held at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

The title of his paper, "A New Experiential Engineering Management Course," explained how his students at HARVEY MUDD COLLEGE worked under the pressures of deadlines and budgets on real management problems for industrial firms. Remer is an associate professor of engineering.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR — Pomona Mayor Charles Bader presents a city placque to Marius Soetendal, burgomaster of the city of Papendrecht near Rotterdam in the Netherlands. Soentendal, appointed to his post by the Queen, was in Pomona this week visiting friends when he attended a City Council meeting to "see how you do things over here."

Chaffey budget, 25-cent tax cut gets approval

A $27.9 million publication budget calling for a 25-cent drop in the tax rate has been approved by trustees of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District.

Board members noted the tax decrease would be helpful to residents, especially in view of a 29 per cent increase in the district's assessed valuation.

The valuation increase means most homeowners will be paying higher tax bills this year despite a cut in the school tax rate.

Parley Hansen, district accountant, explained that based on state formulas, when the assessed valuation goes up, the tax rate may go down. In Chaffey's case, the district has been levying the maximum allowable general purpose rate each year, so this time, "We can lower the rate."

The board will hold a public hearing and consider adoption of a final budget on Aug. 1.

Political arena

SEN. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-33rd Dist., Hacienda Heights, has praised a Los Angeles Superior Court decision which says it is unconstitutional to deny handicapped children "free and appropriate" education under the equal protection clause of the state constitution.

"I am continually being made aware of the difficulties of the educationally handicapped children in my district and throughout the state," Campbell said.

"Available funding is inadequate for tuition, transportation and specialized care costs for these children.

"This landmark ruling, together with legislation now being considered in Sacramento, finally will correct what has been a denial of the basic rights of more than 80,000 physically and mentally disabled student-age children in California."

Campbell is co-author of A. B. 1250, the California Master Plan for Special Education, which would require school districts to provide appropriate programs for handicapped students, and to provide funds to private schools where this education may be obtained. His own bill, S. B. 972, seeks to upgrade the present funding allowance for all developmentally disabled school children.

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., West Covina, voted to authorize the allocation of $750 million to create a National Consumer Cooperative Bank.

The bank act passed the House 199-198. It will be funded by the federal government and chartered as a mixed ownership government corporation which is structured to assist local cooperatives.

It will make loans and furnish financial services and technical assistance to eligible cooperatives.

Opponents of the bill say it is a tremendous waste of taxpayers' money and creates another federal agency whose need is not yet established.

President Carter and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce opposed the bill.

REP. GLENN M. ANDERSON, R-32nd Dist., Long Beach, in testimony before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee on Social Security, called for an end to federal regulations which "effectively discourage blind citizens from seeking employment.

"I am concerned about all existing laws which effectively act to discourage increased employment," Anderson said. "Incredibly enough, the current laws do just that in regards to the blind."

Under current federal law, the nonsighted are eligible for disability insurance. If they obtain a job, even one paying less than the disability benefit, they no longer are eligible for the payments.

"Thanks to this nation's attitude towards the blind, chances of their establishing long-term careers are slim. At the present time," said Anderson, "70 per cent of the employable blind are either unemployed or underemployed."

ANDERSON said the first regional hearings of the National Transportation Policy Study Commission will be held Aug. 8 in room 383 of the Los Angeles County Hall of Administration starting at 9 a.m.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-62nd Dist., Covina, has joined other legislators in sponsoring a bill designed to make it easier to buy a home.

The bill would allow persons to deduct from their income tax the money they save to make down payments on houses.

They would be limited to a $2,500 deduction a year and up to a total deduction of $10,000 over a four-year period.

All money deposited in the tax-free individual housing account would have to be used to make a down payment on a house in which the taxpayer would reside.

Any money not used for that purpose would be subject to back taxes, Lancaster explained. In addition to the principal, interest earned on the housing account also would be tax free.

Legislation creating the individual housing account has been drafted as a preprint bill by Sen. John Stull, a San Diego Republican. He expects to formally introduce it during the 1978 session, Lancaster said.

Three out of four Americans believe a change in the auto insurance system is needed in their state, according to a nationwide public opinion poll.

This finding, and others relating to federal no-fault auto insurance legislation, were disclosed by Steven H. Lesnik, vice president of the Kemper Insurance Co., testifying before the SENATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE.

Lesnik said the findings represent "an urgent plea for action" to reform the country's auto insurance compensation system. He urged the committee and Congress to respond by enacting a no-fault law "which eliminates the abuses and waste of the present legal system."

SEN. RUBEN S. AYALA, D-32nd Dist., Chino, said that only 35,000 of the estimated 200,000 senior citizens eligible for state rent assistance have filed claims.

The deadline for filing such claims in Aug. 31, and those eligible may obtain forms and instructions by writing Ayala's field office at 1063 W. Sixth St., Ontario, Suite 102, Ontario 983-3566.

The rent assistant grant benefits those 62 years of age or older as of Jan. 1, 1977, who rented between July 1, 1976 and June 30, 1977, and who had $5,000 or less total household income last year.

"Some senior citizens who claim the $37 renter's credit on their personal income tax return may believe this disqualified them for rent assistance. This is not true," Ayala said.

Property values of California's privately-owned public utilities have been raised more than $3 billion by the STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION. This will result in more tax revenues for the state's counties and cities.

Homeowners may appeal assessments

Homeowners who feel their properties have been reassessed too high this year may appeal to the Los Angeles County Assessment Appeals Board starting this week.

But most of those whose valuation shot up dramatically, sometimes as much at 110 per cent, won't make use of the board.

They feel the new valuation is in line with the market value of other homes in their areas and therefore the new assessments are not out of line. What they are objecting to is the sudden jump after four or five years of no change.

"I know it would cost me more if the assessment was raised every year," Ralph Catano, a resident of Walnut, declared. "But a 90 per cent jump, wow, it blew me away."

L.E. Johnston of Diamond Bar, whose home assessment went up 105 per cent, is planning to move to Alta Loma. He wants to sell his home, now valued at $84,000; he can't afford the taxes.

The filing date opened July 11 in San Bernardino County and Assessor Robert J. Herbin reported that five appeals were filed during the past week.

The appeal period opened Monday in Los Angeles County and field offices reported "lots of unhappy homeowners."

In both cases, the filing period is until Sept. 25. Homeowners may appeal through application either at field offices or at the county head office in San Bernardino and Los Angeles.

Hearings on the appeals will start after the filing period is over.

Carter OK of water projects compromise measure predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators of both parties are predicting that President Carter will approve a compromise public works bill that drops nine of 18 controversial water projects from the budget.

"We have no indication to give you whether he will accept it," a White House spokesman said Wednesday after a House-Senate conference committee agreed to terms on the bill.

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the conference committee that worked on the measure, said, "I believe the President will sign it."

Stennis said he had not talked to Carter about the bill, but added he understood the President had assured House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill he would approve it.

The compromise, which will be sent back to the full House and Senate for approval, also drops funding for the Clinch River breeder reactor, another project Carter opposes.

The bill approved by the committee appropriates $10.3 billion for an estimated 500 water projects by the Army Corps of Engineers, the Bureau of Reclamation and other agencies.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, echoed Stennis' prediction about Carter. "There is, I suppose, a slight chance that he will veto the legislation, but I personally doubt it," Garn said.

The conference committee was appointed to reconcile differences in public works bills passed by the House and Senate.

The panel agreed to the Senate's decision to provide money for nine of the 18 projects which Carter said were too wasteful to be continued. The House had voted funds for 17 of the 18.

In eliminating funds for the Clinch River breeder reactor in Tennessee, the committee rejected a Senate decision to provide $75 million for the project. The bill approved by the House contains no money for the reactor.

Stennis said the House bill contained no money for the project because of a rule that requires passage of authorization legislation in advance. The House failed to pass such a measure.

On another controversial part of the bill, the committee adopted a Senate provision giving Congress 45 days to override a presidential decision to order production of the new neutron bomb.

The warhead is designed to kill people with intense radiation, but leave buildings unharmed. Carter is asking for funds for the weapon, but has not yet decided whether to order production.

The compromise on the water projects drew strong criticism from environmental opponents of the dams and canals.

Suit filed to keep meteorite

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

For several centuries the 3-ton "Old Woman" meteorite had remained undisturbed in mountains near Twentynine Palms.

Today it is the center of a bitter conflict between county, state and federal officials over how much longer it should remain in California.

State Atty. Gen. Eville Younger — following the lead of San Bernardino County supervisors who have threatened legal action against federal officials — filed suit in Los Angeles Superior Court to prevent the "Old Woman" from being shipped to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C. Friday.

Although Judge Charles Phillips refused to issue a temporary restraining order against the Los Angeles County Museum Tuesday to prevent shipment of the 6,000-pound iron meteorite out of the state, attorneys for Younger said they will resume their court battle today over control of the controversial rock.

State officials got into the act after San Bernardino County supervisors Monday officially requested that federal officials allow the rare meteorite — the second largest ever discovered in the U.S. — to remain in Southern California.

Of 14 large meteorites discovered West of the Rocky Mountains, only one — the "Old Woman" — remains in California.

Seven of the 14 meteorites are presently housed in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C.

If the efforts of the attorney general's office fail in preventing removal by Smithsonian curators of the controversial rock, San Bernardino County officials will seek legal action of their own Thursday morning.

State and county officials claim the rock should rightfully remain in California. Federal officials say they owned the land the "Old Woman" was found on and have decided to give the Smithsonian control over scientific study and display of the meteorite.

When the rock was displayed briefly at the federal Bureau of Land Management office in Riverside recently, over 10,000 curious persons passed through to view it.

The meteorite is presently on display — at least until Friday — at the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History.

Kissinger denies secret deal with Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam wanted American negotiators to agree in 1973 to massive postwar aid and refused to believe that any such program would need the approval of Congress, says former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"Watching the general nature of congressmen in public, they could not believe Congress was anything but a docile instrument of the administration. They told us Congress was nothing but a rubber stamp and that this was a subterfuge," Kissinger said Tuesday.

To disabuse them of that notion, a 50-page document describing the U.S. constitutional process was provided to Hanoi officials. It explained that not only did Congress approve all spending, it "traditionally authorizes and appropriates considerably less than the amount which the President recommends and requests."

Quoting a few lawmakers' speeches, the paper also observed pointedly that "there has been growing resistance to foreign assistance in the Congress in recent years. Skepticism has been voiced over aid to Indochina by many of the most powerful members of Congress: The President has stated that he will make a major effort."

The document was made public as Kissinger appeared before a House subcommittee to tell how then-President Richard M. Nixon made Hanoi a multibillion-dollar aid proposal but never told Congress about it.

The Paris peace accords signed in January 1973 contained provision for U.S. postwar aid, and Nixon told North Vietnam's Premier Pham Van Dong in a private letter that the United States would contribute reconstruction aid "without any political conditions."

The aid would "fall in the range of" $3.25 billion, with another $1 billion to $1.5 billion in other assistance possibly tacked on, Nixon said, but the actual amounts would be negotiated by a Joint Economic Committee and approved via the "constitutional process" of each country — meaning U.S. congressional sanction.

Whether the lesson in the U.S. political process made an impression on the North Vietnamese is unknown, but no aid deal was concluded.

The Paris accords for which Kissinger shared the Nobel Peace Prize began to break down. By late July, he said, Hanoi's violations became so regular "we concluded there was no basis for giving economic aid and so stopped the work of the Joint Economic Committee."

But Kissinger denied that the Nixon letter was a secret promise that the United States hadn't kept. It was not a solid commitment, he said, but a "planning figure ... a ball park figure" to be used as a basis for the joint committee's negotiations.

Congress was not told about the letter, he said, because the matter of postwar aid to Hanoi never reached the stage of a formal proposal by the Nixon administration.

North Vietnamese officials stunned a visiting House delegation by revealing the letter's existence in 1975. But U.S. officials, including Kissinger, denied knowledge of it. It was only a few months ago that Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., chairman of the House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific affairs, managed to obtain a copy.

Although the Carter administration is attempting to "put the past behind us" and move toward restoring normal relations with Vietnam's communist regime, it has taken the position that any aid understandings connected with the Paris accords were long since nullified by the violations of that pact.

Kissinger strongly endorsed this position, saying that in view of Hanoi's abuses of the agreement, it would be "an absurdity" for the United States to consider itself bound to any such understanding.

"That would be carrying masochism to the extreme," he said.

In reply to questions, he said he knew of no unrevealed promises by the United States to furnish postwar aid to Vietnam, and that if Hanoi wants to contend there is one, it should produce evidence.

Kissinger said he had searched all available files to find whether any such paper exists and had found nothing. "I would be astonished if the State Department's files contained any agreements that I'm not aware of," he said.

Kissinger said he believes Hanoi is continuing to withhold information about Americans missing in Indochina and the United States should not consider aid "until we've had a full accounting."

Delay in comeback of China's Teng adds touch of mystery

TENG HSIAO-PING

TOKYO (AP) — New signals from Peking indicate that the long-delayed second comeback of China's scrappy former senior vice premier, Teng Hsiaoping, either has taken place or is not far off. But the disappearance today of two wall posters acclaiming his return to power added a touch of mystery to the developments.

Japanese correspondents in the Chinese capital reported that two wall posters were put up Tuesday with the news that the 73-year-old Teng had been restored to all his former posts — vice premier, party vice chairman and chief of the army general staff.

A third, larger poster — 40 yards long — went up Wednesday, but for some still mysterious reason the two posters displayed Tuesday were taken down.

One reason for this could be that the people at the Ministry of Foreign Economic Relations, which posted the first two, jumped the gun. Ministries generally are informed in advance of major party decisions, which are made in secret.

Another possibility is that supporters of Teng at the ministry became impatient over the delay in the official announcement of his long-expected rehabilitation.

A number of earlier false alarms regarding Teng prompted some caution today. Last March a report from Canton said that Teng had taken over as premier. Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng has yet to give up that concurrent job.

But the new wall posters have a ring of authority because of their sources — a government ministry and the Peking normal school. The party would inform both in advance of any decision on Teng.

The probability that Teng would return soon was suggested four days ago by Liao Cheng-chih, president of the China-Japan Friendship Association. He told a visiting Japanese youth delegation, "Comrade Teng will be rehabilitated without fail. There is a possibility you can hear the news while you are in China." The delegation is to remain there until July 29.

Noted for boldness and administrative ability, the 5-foot Teng has already had one comeback in an up-and-down career. In 1973 the late Premier Chou En-lai restored him to power after the party radicals, led by then-Chairman Mao Tsetung's wife, Chiang Ching, had broken and disgraced him during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution.

His second downfall at the hands of the radicals occurred in April 1976 after the death of Chou, his powerful protector. The death of Mao five months later touched off a crisis of succession in which moderates arrested the radical leaders and chose Hua as chairman.

Because Hua is still groping toward a firm power base, Teng had to wait. His credentials for leadership, as the inheritor of Chou's moderate line and a veteran of the Long March of the 1930s, were more respectable than Hua's. Hence he could be a rival.

Moreover, since the new regime rules in Mao's name while actually following Chou's ideas, any suggestion that the dead chairman is being defied has to be avoided. And it was Mao who was behind Teng's second fall from power.

'Oldest' Chevy dealership

MOLINE, Kan. (AP) — If someone out in America has been selling Chevrolets longer than the Ames family of Moline, L. E. "Chig" Ames wants to know about it.

The signs along roads into this southeast Kansas town of 700 and one hanging over Ames' building, once a livery stable where his father housed horses and mules, declare it "America's Oldest Chevy Dealership."

The 63-year-old car dealer advertises that the business his father started in 1915 is the oldest family dealership in the nation, although Chevrolet officials say they cannot determine who among their 6,000 dealers really may claim the title.

"I would certainly say Mr. Ames has one of the oldest family lineage dealerships in the country, but I can't confirm that he's the oldest," said Bruce McDonald, a spokesman for Chevrolet in Detroit.

Ames' father, O. R. Ames, was running his stable in 1915 when he applied for a dealership. He died in 1940, shortly after he was recognized for having the oldest dealership in the firm's 16-state Midwest region.

Ames tried to find his national ranking after the 1940 honor. Early this year, he thought he had found out when a management friend checked company records and told Ames he was "one of the oldest, but not the oldest" dealerships.

Ames noted that company officials have since told him they had heard that a New Jersey dealership has been operating continuously in one family since 1914. But Ames says Chevrolet has not asked him to take down his signs.

"I'm not going to do anything until I find out more about it," he said. "If he is older than I am, I'll put 'Second Oldest Dealership' on the signs."

Viet vets may lose benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is moving to deny veterans benefits to thousands of Vietnam-era veterans whose less-than-honorable discharges may be upgraded.

The House voted Tuesday in favor of an amendment to a $69.3 billion appropriations bill calling for a prohibition on the use of Veterans Administration funds for the Carter administration program. The bill provides funding for 16 federal agenies in the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

The amendment was passed 251 to 160, although some supporters of the funding restriction argued that the action was unnecessary. They noted that separate legislation before the House and Senate Veterans Affairs committees would have a similar impact.

MSAC District taxes increase four cents

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A four-cent increase is being added to the tax rate of the Mt. San Antonio College District to raise more money for the state teachers retirement fund, James Simpson, vice president in charge of business, announced.

The boost is state mandated and will raise the rate from 71 to 74 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, he said.

Simpson told the board of trustees this week the district is in a "lot better shape financially this month than in June" because of a sizable rise in the district's assessed valuation.

He said he had counted on an 11 per cent rise, but Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson placed a 15 per cent increase on property served by the college.

Moreover, he added, the state apportionment was higher than he had anticipated. As a result, the district's income is expected to reflect $421,000 in additional income.

The trustees adopted a publication budget of $27,791,747, compared with a tentative budget of $25,914,273 in June, and an actual budget of $25,500,867 for the year which ended June 30.

The district finds itself with a surplus of nearly $4.7 million, about $3.7 million more than required by the board.

This is in contrast with projections by Simpson last May that the operating income would be about $800,000 less than the anticipated expenditures.

The expenditures shown in the publication budget do not reflect any contingencies for salary increases for teaching and nonteaching employes.

However, the board has approved, for the second time, increases for those who are not involved in collective bargaining. Both times, the average increase was slightly over 6 per cent.

The latest increases were for administrators. Although no comparisons to last year were shown, a check of last year's salaries for the same administrators showed the increase.

The boosts were not across-the-board. The new president of the college, Jack Randall, will get $4,000 a month compared with $4,120 for outgoing president Eldon E. Pearce, and the pay for all vice presidents has been established at $3,600 a month, regardless of how long they have had the job.

The board had approved increases for confidential employes earlier. They averaged slightly more than 6 per cent also.

Salary proposals for teachers and classified employes are bogged down in negotiations and are not expected to be worked out for at least another month.

Construction worker strike ends as agreement reached

A tentative agreement has been reached to end a strike by heavy-machine operators that had halted various construction projects in the valley.

Projects affected include the $200 million modernization program at Kaiser Steel in Fontana and the extension of the Devore Freeway between the San Bernardino and Pomona freeways.

Also affected was the $500,000 Sycamore Canyon Park project in Diamond Bar.

Members of the AFL-CIO Operating Engineers Local 12 had walked off their jobs Monday in a pay dispute with contractors. The engineers operate large earth moving equipment used for grading land before construction of a project begins.

Details of Wednesday's agreement to end the walkout were not revealed, pending a vote by the union's membership Sunday.

However, it was reported earlier that the two sides had agreed on the amount of the raise — $2.95 an hour over three years — but disagreed over when it would be paid. The union was seeking a raise in three steps, but management wanted to spread it over five increments, according to Jerry Lynch, union spokesman.

The engineers now earn an average of $10.71 an hour plus $3.56 in fringe benefits.

According to an official of a joint industry committee which negotiated the raise, the boost would amount to 21 per cent over three years.

Los Angeles County officials say the projects affected were those in the grading stage. Improvements at Mountain Meadows Golf Course in Pomona are too far along to be affected.

The $15 million Devore Freeway project was halted by the walkout, according to San Bernardino County officials. That would provide a link between the Pomona and San Bernardino freeways.

Plans for Sycamore Canyon Park in Diamond Bar — previously halted by the strike — include a recreation building, ball fields and picnic area.

A parking lot at Stimson Park in Hacienda Heights costing $38,000 also is affected, said Jim Church, the county's head facilities manager.

He added that the $438,000 Sunkist Library project in La Puente and the $240,000 Hacienda Park project in La Habra Heights area were also affected.

The strike also affected various housing projects in both counties, but spokesmen for the building industry were not immediately available for comment.

Alaska officials get rare treat: corn from Chino

Several University of Alaska officials in Fairbanks today are munching fresh roasting ears of corn from Chino picked a day earlier, thanks to La Verne College President Armen Sarafian.

Sarafian, who is helping the Alaskan school reorganize its administration and operations, stuffed four dozen ears of sweet corn picked Wednesday afternoon, into his suitcases before leaving by plane for Fairbanks last night.

Fresh corn is as scarce as palm trees in the 49th state and quite expensive when available in stores there, he said. The 48 ears arrived less than a day after picking.

Sarafin was commissioned as a consultant along with a New York educator last year to help reorganize the University of Alaska which maintains campuses in Fairbanks, Anchorage and Juneau plus 10 junior colleges and a research center. He will return by the weekend.

ELEVATOR RESCUE

Workmen at Pomona City Hall open the doors on an elevator, freeing four youths who had been trapped inside Wednesday afternoon for about 45 minutes. The youngsters kept their spirits up by singing songs until workmen from the Oliver-Williams Co. could be summoned to open the door, which was stuck on the main floor of the City Hall. The youths were at City Hall for a tour of the facility.

Chicano leaders plan formation of committee

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A quintet of Chicano leaders announced during a Wednesday press conference the formation of a committee to deal with community apathy, employment, education, housing and the undocumented worker on regional, state and national levels.

Gustavos Ramos, former Ontario councilman; attorney Juan Jimenez of Redlands; the Rev. Manuel Guillen of Chino, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church; Armando Navarro of Upland, director of the National Institute for Community Development; and community worker Ralph Hernandez of San Bernardino gave explanations of the purpose of the newly formed Human Rights Organizing Committee for La Raza.

The main thrust of the committee is to mobilize the Spanish-speaking communities throughout the state and ultimately the nation. Navarro described the need for the Chicano to have a national organization that not only deals with social issues and problems, but also serves as a guardian of Chicano rights in various institutions and at all government levels.

In a press release, the committee said it hoped to hold a regional action conference in Los Angeles between Sept. 30 and Oct. 2, and develop a "common plan of action."

"We cannot afford the luxury of being disunited. This is a means of mobilizing and reconsolidating resources, maximizing resources to deal with education, economy, political action and social changes in the community," Navarro said.

The committee's ultimate goal is "to awaken the slumbering political awareness in the Chicano community, create a national political organization that will stimulate change and prevent abuse," Navarro added.

Father Guillen said the church will play an active role in organizing the various communities.

"The church feels an individual has certain God-given rights. These rights demand a moral obligation on the part of the church," the parish priest said.

Ramos said conditions in the barrios throughout the nation are similar and it is essential "to look at situations that make people pull back. Now is the time. The time for action. There is no more time for talking."

Jimenez said he and other attorneys will provide legal expertise on the methods that can be utilized to become a part of the decision-making process in the law and court systems and in the government.

"We as Spanish-speaking people were never asked what we wanted. There is a vacuum of power. We hope to provide a basis through legal power to bring representation to the people," Jimenez said.

FIREMAN'S FUNERAL

Firemen fold a flag above the casket of Montclair fireman Robert G. Anderson at the Bellevue Cemetery in Ontario. He was killed in an accident involving a fire truck and a car.

300 attend fireman's funeral

Some 300 persons, including firemen from as far away as Oregon, attended services Wednesday for Montclair Fireman Robert G. Anderson.

The Rev. Carl W. Hoppman, speaking at graveside in Bellevue Cemetery, Ontario, said the presence of the firemen was a "demonstration of devotion, dedication and loyalty" typical of all firefighters.

Mr. Anderson was killed Saturday when an automobile struck the fire engine on which he was riding, pinning him in the wreckage.

The tragic mishap occurred only three days after another Montclair fireman, Thomas E. Liskey, died in a plane crash in Orange County.

Anderson's flag-draped casket was escorted to the Ontario cemetery by dozens of fire engines, police cars and emergency vehicles, manned by officers of fire departments and police agencies from as far away as Winston-Dillard Fire District No. 5, Winston, Ore.

Equal rights in uniform

Is the all-volunteer army a flop? Do we need to go back to a military draft? The answer to both questions is "no." If you accept the word of former Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld, who now serves as president of a drug company in Skokie, Ill., insists that the volunteer army has been a "complete success" since the draft ended in December of 1972. In fact, both the Army and Marine Corps have had recruiting problems. And the situation is likely to get even tighter in future years because of the decreasing number of young men.

Whatever its defects, though, the volunteer army is much fairer than the draft-by-lottery system and much less expensive than universal military training would be.

The recruiting problem — the problem that worries so many Pentagon old-timers — could be at least partially solved by taking more women into the armed forces.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has been pushing the Army, for example, to stop accepting so many high school dropouts and recruit more high-quality women instead. One study recommends recruiting as many as 100,000 women into the Army by 1982. Yet the Army's own plans call for fewer than 60,000 by then.

It seems to us that all services could recruit more women without damaging the nation's ability to defend itself in any way. With the exception of hand-to-hand combat, women can perform most jobs in a modern army as well as men.

Rumsfeld is right when he says the volunteer army can succeed. The prospects would be brighter, however, if we were recruiting the best talent available, regardless of sex.

The $6,000 gesture

President Carter's insistence that he pay $6,000 in 1976 income taxes even though, technically, he owed nothing at all was a laudable gesture.

But as a practical matter, the President had little choice. Imagine the outcry once it became known that the President's tax liability for 1976 (on an income of nearly $55,000) was exactly zero.

Had he not been in politics, Carter probably would have done as would the rest of us — paid no income tax. And rightfully so. For his entire tax liability for the year ($11,675) was more than offset by a $20,865 investment tax credit on new equipment for the family peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga.

Carter's $6,000 gesture is actually another reminder that there still are too many ways — all of them legal — in which an affluent individual can avoid paying federal income taxes.

Congress did amend the tax code last year to impose a minimum tax in areas previously exempt from taxation. But it did not go all the way in this field.

Obviously, there is work still to be done. No set of deductions or exemptions should be permitted which allow high income individuals to escape paying at least a minimum tax to Uncle Sam.

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

Have you ever had someone ask you point-blank, "What's your name?" Or on the telephone ask, "Who is this?" Have you ever wanted to make up some ridiculous name to satisfy their curiosity?

It isn't that we particularly care about having the questions asked — we all have names, though we try very hard to conceal them sometimes. It's just that a basic shyness comes over us when we're asked to identify ourselves. It is a very personal thing to reveal our names on the spur of the moment. Someone else can do it, or we can if it is for a specific purpose, but we suddenly become very conscious of how private we hold our names until we know why someone wants to know them. A name is somewhat like a key to a non-public door — why do you need it?

What people say

"Many people look upon the termination of a marriage as a failure rather than perhaps as a lifestyle change, a developmental stage in a relationship. When the anger mounts and the feelings of failure increase, they will do anything at their disposal to hurt the other partner."

—Dr. Lee Salk, child psychologist, pleading for special rights for the children of divorcing parents.

"It is the president's prerogative to bring this man back and reassign him, but he is depriving the Korean command of an extremely capable official . . . who ought to stay there."

—Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., criticizing President Carter for his removal of Maj. Gen. John Singlaub from Korea on the MacNeil-Lehrer Report on PBS.

Internment was not unfair

Dear Editor:

There have been a rash of TV programs and newspaper writings of late, the burden of which seems to be that we Americans should beat our breasts and atone for our mistreatment of the poor Japanese-American internees at the Manzanar Camp during World War II. In my belief this is just plain silly. May I please bring up two or three small considerations one should keep in mind when thinking of this era.

The first thing which always seems to escape the "Mea Culpa" breast-beaters is that there was a precedent for this internment. When we found ourselves at war with Germany the members of the German-American Bund and other active subversionist organizations were rounded up and whisked off into internment. Not all of them were active underground by any means. Many of the Manzanar internees were not loyal, suffering victims but rather were cynical, dedicated subversives whose internment interrupted their anti-U.S. activities.

Secondly, it never seems to occur to anyone that there was no hysteria, no hot-blooded trigger-happy irrationality about the event. Rather it was a calculated and necessary decision. We awoke one Sunday to find we were at war. Soon we learned that we had been struck a disastrous and crippling blow and this was followed up by defeat after defeat, each one disastrous and humiliating. Since we, too, had an underground we knew that the enemy's timetable was to attack the Pacific Coast as soon as he could arrange it. We also knew that there was already in existence in the Pacific states a sophisticated net of spies functioning and laying plans for the invasion, to spread terror and panic in front of it and to sabotage in every possible way our efforts to defend against it.

We also knew that up till that time the Japanese were on schedule and we did not dare assume that this would change. We had to prepare for the invasion as if it were going to happen. This inevitably involved rounding up the underground. Unfortunately there was no practical way to tell which Japanese-Americans were disloyal and so we had to round up a large number. Our very existence might depend on our having done so.

I, myself, have seen photographic evidence of subversive activity right in Japanese gardens supposedly tenanted by loyal Americans. But this isn't the point. Let us suppose there had been an invasion and that we were engaged in repulsing it. Can you imagine the terrible suffering and bloodshed that would have been inflicted on all those in the area who even looked Japanese? Our military decision-makers could and that was one reason why they were rounded up: for their own protection.

Fortunately for us, however, we were able to set back the enemy and deal him a few blows which put him off his timetable permanently. I just could wish, however, that a few of the tears shed for the poor Japanese-American internees could be diverted to the savagely treated and often senselessly butchered American soldiers who were unlucky enough to find themselves in Japanese prisoner-of-war camps. It was this inhuman butchery that hardened us against Japanese more than any other factor. If one is looking for someone to blame for Manzanar let him blame the real cause: the violation of the Geneva convention.

Our own Nisei troops fought splendidly. At one time the Nisei 100th Infantry was the most decorated unit in the armed forces. They more than did their share and are entitled to our gratitude and eternal respect. However, to blame us for interning their countrymen is just not fair nor just.

The case of Nicolas Shadrin

One year ago, I killed a story to save a man's life. But the man's lawyer tells me that some newspapers got wind of the story and have already or are about to publish it. The attorney, therefore, has agreed to let me relate the dramatic details.

The endangered man is Nicolas Shadrin.

He is a former Russian naval officer who defected to the United States two decades ago.

He has worked closely with U.S. intelligence. On Dec. 20, 1975, Shadrin disappeared from the streets of Vienna, Austria. It was later learned that he had been kidnapped by the Soviet secret police, the KGB. There has been no word from him.

It can now be revealed that Shadrin was a double agent for the United States. He originally bolted to the West in June 1959. He had attended the Soviet Union's most advanced naval training schools. He was able to talk in detail, therefore, about Russian naval tactics and strategy. In the words of my intelligence sources, he was a "gold mine of information" for the Pentagon and the CIA.

After months of debriefing, Shadrin went to work for the Pentagon. He and his wife settled in the Virginia suburbs. Then, in 1966, Shadrin was approached by two KGB agents who worked at the Soviet embassy. They pressured him to spy for the Soviets. He immediately reported the incident to the FBI. The G-men asked him to become a double agent.

He thought about this for a while, then reluctantly decided to cooperate. He kept his other life so secret that not even his wife knew about it. For nine years, he obediently passed along FBI-prepared information to the KGB. He was also sent on two missions abroad — one to Montreal, another to Vienna — before the final, fateful mission in December 1975.

In Vienna, he received some intensive training in codes and security devices. On Dec. 18, he met with two KGB agents on the steps of a church. Another meeting was arranged for two days later. He caught a taxi for the rendezvous. He was never seen again. My sources believe he was dragged by the KGB across the Czechoslovakian border and was taken to Moscow.

U.S. officials lodged a few cautious protests. On Jan. 5, 1976, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger mentioned the incident to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. The Russians claimed they had never heard of the man.

In February, the missing man's wife, Blanka Shadrin, retained an attorney, Richard Copaken, of the prestigious Covington and Burling firm. He questioned officials in the Defense Intelligence Agency, Central Intelligence Agency, FBI, National Security Council, Justice Department and State Department.

He learned that each of these agencies knew only parts of the story.

Copaken established private channels, held a series of meetings in West Berlin and tried to arrange a prisoner exchange. At first, he tried to swap a second-rate Soviet spy, Sarkis Paskalian, for Shadrin. But the Soviets wouldn't deal. They wanted Guntar Guillaume, the Communist spy who brought down the government of Willy Brandt.

Back in the United States, Copaken met great resistance to this idea from Henry Kissinger. Copaken also believes U.S. officials violated the ground rules set by his negotiators, when a White House official took up the Shadrin case directly with Soviet officials in Washington.

Gambling tempting cities

If any city needed a hypo, Atlantic City did.

The historic boardwalk was shabby, most hotels shoddy, tourism was nil and conventions rarely went there and never twice.

Now Atlantic City is busy, bustling, booming. Property values are soaring. Conventions are being booked for hotels that are not even built yet.

All because that state has elected to legalize gambling which it hopes will convert old Atlantic City into a new version of Vegas East.

If the response is disappointing this first big gamble will bankrupt a lot of builders, promoters and raw land speculators.

But if Atlantic City is a success as a gambling mecca . . . .

Then every city that's pinched in the pocketbook is going to be tempted to allow gambling. This could be the start of something awful!

The first casino will not open in Atlantic City for another five or six months but there is already an increase in weekend tourism.

Not one slot machine is functional in Atlantic City — yet outsiders are so caught up in the fever that bills to legalize gambling have already been introduced in state legislatures in New York and Pennsylvania, Florida and Massachusetts.

Resort owners in the Poconos and the Catskills are reluctant to and scared not to.

In New Jersey it was a coalition of local politicians, local businessmen and union officials who promoted the necessary state legislation.

They were assisted by some out-of-state people. All the time the New Jersey legislature was considering this calculated gamble, it was assumed the "outstate people" included nobody more sinister than hotel builders and professional casino operators.

Anyway, it was a smooth and well-financed campaign. It was sufficiently financed and sufficiently persuasive to influence mightily any money-conscious state legislature.

But I remember a J. Edgar Hoover admonition which remains disturbing.

I had asked him why — if gambling on the stock market is all right — shooting craps is not.

He said that the best argument against legalized craps, roulette and slots . . . are the kinds of people these things attract.

He considered Las Vegas a social cancer, the skimmed profits from which supported all manner of vice and crime internationally.

So they and all will know, organized crime is trying to move in on Atlantic City with loan sharking and protection racketeering. The causeway linked island is seeing enough added boat traffic to indicate a tremendous potential for smuggling. With the Brunos and the DeCavalcantes and the Gambinos in town, local police are out of their league and the feds are now so fettered with court restraints that the bad guys have every advantage.

But Atlantic City is too euphoric to worry right now. Unemployment which was 22 per cent plus last March is shrinking fast. Some 49,000 new jobs are projected. Property values have doubled in ten months.

Liquor licenses you couldn't give away a year ago now sell for $30,000.

And one looks on and wonders.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Doctors have another big worry hanging over their heads now that a government health agency has decided sugar may cause cancer. Sooner or later some enterprising lawyer is bound to drum up a class action malpractice suit naming as defendants all those doctors who once may have been in the habit of prescribing what they considered harmless sugar coated pills for hypochondriacs. — But that's the way it is these days when government agencies start concerning themselves with our physical welfare. Now that the sugar scare is well under way, you can also look for a government edict requiring valentine card manufacturers to change an age-old greeting to read: Roses are red, violets are blue, sugar is sweet but it could kill you. — However, it isn't only government health agencies that come to interesting conclusions regarding sugar. There is also the girl who is so naive she thinks sugar coating PILLS is one of the latest refinements in birth control.

Direct action to cut taxes

By EARL G. WATERS

Depending upon how skillful the legislators are at devising a property tax relief measure which will satisfy the majority of voters, the issue may yet come to the point where the citizens will act to remedy the problem by clamping ceilings on government spending through initiative action.

The threat of direct action to secure property tax relief has been hanging over the lawmakers through the entire session with some initiative efforts already under way and others being readied.

Progress towards the goal in the legislature has been slow as competing forces battled to have their viewpoints prevail. The struggles momentarily are concentrated upon one measure into which all efforts have been channeled. This is SB 154, ostensibly by Sen. Nick Petris but actually containing the provisions of AB 999 by Assemblyman Willie Brown.

The measure was hijacked after Senate passage by the Assembly forces which substituted the Brown proposals for those of Petris and rejected Petris' efforts to salvage any of the features of his bill. An irony is that the Brown bill (Willie) is no way the Brown bill (Gov. Jerry). Even the Petris bill before the hijacking was not acceptable to the governor who had been backing yet another measure, that one authored by Sen. Jerry Smith.

In any event what is now expected to happen is for the Assembly to pass the Senate bill (now actually an Assembly bill wrapped in Senate clothing) thus forcing it to a conference committee where it will undoubtedly undergo substantial rewriting and emerge beyond recognition of either of its former selves.

Reacting to the juggling of the property tax issue into what some are now calling a tax football with extensive tamperings with the tax structure too numerous and complicated to detail here, Assembly Republican leader Paul Priolo has undertaken legislation to clamp a ceiling on state and local spending. He would limit cost increases to no more than that necessary to meet population growth and cost of living adjustments.

While he hasn't declared such an intention yet, it isn't unlikely, in face of the certain stone wall his proposal will meet in the legislature, that Priolo may ultimately seek to put his plan before the voters as an initiative.

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, a declared candidate for lieutenant governor, announced he will seek an initiative to limit spending by compelling tax cuts.

Arnett, who said he will ask the Republican Party to spearhead the drive to place the measure on the ballot, asserted the public can expect "no more than a few political aspirins in the form of temporary rebates" as property tax relief. He said "Californians are tired of short termed insignificant tax relief schemes and tax reform plans that don't lessen the burdens.

"What they need and what they deserve are tax cuts," he declared, stating the only way they will get that is "by taking the lawmaking process into their own hands."

Arnett said his proposal would require all property to be assessed at 20 per cent of market value instead of the current 25 per cent.

He also said he will include the requirement for a two-thirds majority vote of the members of any tax imposing body to increase any tax.

Ann Landers

Mother abused by 14-year-old

Dear Ann: In all the years I have read your column, I have never come across a problem like mine. I had heard of child abuse and wife abuse, but never parent abuse.

My 14-year-old son is cruel to me. He orders me around as if I were a servant. When I do or say something that displeases him he tells me to drop dead.

My husband takes no nonsense from the boy. The only time I feel safe is when he is home from work and on weekends. There has never been any violence in our home. We have a beautiful marriage. Why our son is so hostile to me is a mystery. He was a happy and healthy baby. His problems began when he started school.

Things went from bad to worse. Finally we took the boy to a psychiatrist. Now after two years of therapy he is meaner than ever. Our son's friends are all normal, respectful and bright. He gets along well with them. No one would believe the way he treats me.

It's my fault that today is Tuesday, not Friday, that he lost his blue socks or his keys or did poorly in an exam.

I am now in therapy trying to find some answers but I can't take his morning and afternoon tirades, smashing things and screaming how much he hates me. Can you help? — Abused Parent

Dear Parent: Whenever a pattern of abuse exists you will find two elements: (A) An abuser. (B) A person who will allow himself — or herself — to be abused.

If you are seeing a competent psychiatrist you shouldn't need to write to Ann Landers.

Dear Ann: I was married at 18. I am now 30 and my sex life is lousy. In fact, there isn't any. My husband served time in prison before we married and enjoys sex by himself.

I've bugged him to go to a doctor but he says, "I'm not sick. Just leave me alone."

I love him and don't want a divorce. Counseling is out. He won't go. Is there a pill or drug I can slip in his coffee without him knowing it? I haven't had much schooling and can't write very good but I read your column every day and will be looking for an answer. — J.J.

Dear J.J.: I know of no pill or drug that will perform the miracle you are hoping for.

If you insist on sticking with a man who has so little regard for your emotional needs (and you say you love him yet), YOU'D better get some counseling and learn how to live with him. A good therapist can suggest alternatives.

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to "Very Lonely," whose wife and daughter avoid conversation with him, I have a few questions he might ask himself.

What kind of conversationalist is HE? When he shares his thoughts with his wife and daughter, does he accept differing views with grace? Or does he want to deliver lectures, repeated so often that his wife and daughter could number, file, and recite them? Does he make frequent references to past and irrelevant examples of poor judgment? His problem may be himself, not them. — Guess How I Know

Dear Guess: Thanks for pointing out that there are often three sides to every story — yours, his, and the truth, which lies somewhere in between.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Which athletes earn the most

Question arises as to which professional team athletes make the most money. The basketball players, no doubt about it. Average salary now in the National Basketball Association is $126,000 a year. As opposed to $90,000 in the National Hockey League. And $50,000 in the National Football League and the baseball majors.

"The years that a woman subtracts from her age are not lost," said the Countess Diane de Poitiers, "they are added to the ages of other women."

Just don't bother to talk to a honeybee. They're stone deaf.

MUSKRAT

Q. "Is muskrat meat edible?"

A. That it is. In fact, it's marketed under such oddball names as marsh rabbit, marsh hare and terrapin.

Q. "How did those miniature Japanese trees come to be called 'bonsai'?"

A. That means "planted in a tray."

Q. "What does basketball star Kareem Abdul Jabbar's name mean?"

A. Kareem, generous, Abdul, servant of Allah. Jabbar, powerful.

HYPNOTIC HOAX

You've seen that renowned act wherein the stage hypnotist puts a person into a trance and then gets said person to stretch out between two chair backs with rigid support only at the heels and the neck. Pretty tricky, that one. Suspended in midair, what? Nothing to it. If you're in fair physical shape, you can do it, too, without hypnotism.

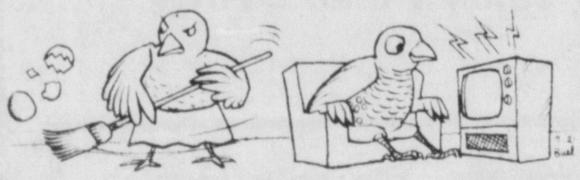
There's eight times more water under sea level than land above sea level, please note.

About 10,000 of the 12,000 muscles in a wild goose control its feathers.

It's frivolous to get morose over trivial things, I realize, but don't you too, feel sad about the horrendously high-rising cost of pickled herring? And what about that endangered species, the Dungeness crab? Pity. And who can ignore the fact that only a few selected coastal markets anymore sell cherrystone clams? It's heartbreaking. Okay, let's break for lunch.

Dr. Miller

Noise, light or lack of privacy



DEAR DR. MILLER: This zebra finch hen of mine is having a terrible time becoming a mother. Twice now, she's had a couple of eggs in the nest, then broken or thrown them out. Last year, she and Harry (that's her husband) successfully raised a family. This year, they've had plenty of the right foods again, all the same care, the only difference is we've moved. Would that have an effect? — E.Y.

DEAR E.Y.: Your zebra finch's family failure could be related to a currently unfavorable environment. Perhaps there's now too much noise, light, or simply lack of privacy in which to pursue necessary nesting activities, brooding for example. If there is no nutritional or other physical cause, then providing increased privacy and/or possibly a new nest box and nesting materials may make the next round (if there is one) more successful.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Smitten kitten is a slow eater. This time of year her "dining room" gets pretty hot. She dawdles all day over the same plate of food before finally finishing it. I know my food could spoil if I did the same thing. Couldn't this happen to hers? — D.K.

DEAR D.K.: If Smitten's supper (lunch and breakfast) has a high fluid content (and this is desirable), spoilage certainly can occur. When feeding fresh or canned food, then, give a small enough amount so it will be consumed within a few hours. Then repeat the process with a clean dish and a fresh food supply.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Last year, everybody in the family except Duke, our hound, came down with poison oak or poison ivy, whichever it was. We'll be going back to the same spot soon. We're going to be careful of that stuff this year, you can bet. Do we have to worry about Duke, too? Was he lucky, or is he immune to it? — D.D.

DEAR D.D.: While the degree of immunity, or lack of it, may change from one year to the next, chances are reasonably good Duke won't be bothered by the poison oak (or ivy) this year, either. You'd better worry more about your pooch packing the poison, then being affected by it. The toxic resin (sap) from these plants can be carried on his coat and brought back to you. You could become victims again without going near those plants, simply by patting, or rubbing against, Duke's contaminated coat.

How to split from parties

According to most of the women I have talked with husbands notoriously hate parties. The majority of them seem to have a low threshhold of tolerance for standing, talking, and keeping awake when someone is telling them about their dog's hysterectomy.

I always feel sorry for newlyweds or couples who do not know one another well enough to know when they want to split. They just stand there trying to read one another's faces. When we were first married, I remember standing at a party absolutely miserable with an anchovy under my tongue to prolong swallowing, my varicose veins thumping and thinking, "Lord, if my husband wants to leave now . . . give me a sign."

At that moment, someone bumped into me, spilled a drink down my back, and I swallowed the anchovy. As I ran to the privet hedge to spit up I noted my husband was right behind me. It was apparent then that God worked in strange ways.

Usually, however, it is my husband who wants to leave a party first, so he got the idea to devise a series of signals to tell me when it is time to move along. How can you tell if your husband wants to leave a party?

1. When you hear a car pulling out of the driveway and it's yours.
2. When he starts making necklaces out of the raw shrimp.
3. When he disappears from the room and changes clothes — to his pajamas and robe.
4. When he starts emptying the ashtrays and putting the dog out and checking doors — and he isn't the host.
5. When he turns to the dog and says, "I don't believe we've met."
6. When his face breaks out in a chip dip rash.
7. When he whispers in your ear, "I think I hear my mother calling," and she lives in St. Louis.
8. When he's staring intently at the TV set and it's showing test patterns.
9. When he asks a guest in a loud voice where she buys her Supp-Hose.
10. When he takes the drink out of your hand, hangs your handbag over your arm, puts your coat over your shoulder and says, "Erma's tired."

On a subtlety scale, he's right behind a bar stool proposition and a bulldozer, but you get the idea.

It works both ways. The other night I saw him emerged in a long conversation with a well-stacked blonde. Subtly, I spilled a drink down his coat and whispered, "God works in strange ways."

Dr. Lamb

Pill can delay conception

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 28 years old and have been taking birth control pills for five years. I quit taking the pill six months ago.

My husband and I would like to start a family but I have not had a period for six months and I would like to know if this is normal when getting off the pill. I do have a history of irregular periods before taking the pill. I skipped three to four months at a time.

Since I have stopped taking the pill I have experienced headaches, backaches, pains shooting from my upper thighs to my knees, depression and crying spells.

Is there any medication to start the menstrual flow again or does the effect of the pill have to run its course? Do you think I should go see a gynecologist and if so what type of medication might I expect?

DEAR READER — The trouble in evaluating the effect of the pill in delaying menstrual periods after it is stopped is that some women have difficulty ovulating anyway and would have had trouble without the pill. Nevertheless, the weight of opinion is that the pill can cause a delay in resuming normal ovulation.

Yes, you should see your doctor. If necessary he can try some medicines that stimulate the ovary — the fertility pills. However, this is not always successful. Delaying a family is sound in many cases but as a woman gets older she may have increasing difficulty getting pregnant. Biologically, sometimes younger is better.

DEAR DR. LAMB — The doctor has told me there are spurs at the back of my neck. I had a number of X rays taken. The spurs are pinching the nerves which cause me much pain in my arms, shoulders and neck. I had never heard of spurs except in the feet.

He prescribed medicine to take for one month but the tablets didn't seem to agree with me and burn my stomach.

I am wondering if I should continue to take these tablets. Please let me know more about these spurs. I thought perhaps I had a tumor but my doctor insists I have none.

DEAR READER — Bone spurs are fairly common. In many cases if the bone degenerates it tries to form new bone. This can occur in degenerative arthritis. The new bone formation does not follow the correct growth pattern and may form spurs. These can be on any of the vertebrae. Or you can develop bone spurs in an arthritic joint.

When a bone spur is located in such a position that it causes pressure on the roots of spinal nerves it can cause pain. Sometimes the degeneration of the vertebrae involved may also cause pressure that is a factor in causing the pain.

Any of the medicines used to decrease pain, including aspirin, may be helpful. They do not eliminate the spur of course. If the medicine your doctor gave you does not agree with you the wisest thing to do would be to return to him and tell him so. He can give you something else that may work for you without upsetting your stomach.

Readers who want information about arthritis can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-10, Osteoarthritis: Degenerative or Wear and Tear Arthritis. Send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing. Mail your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

One of the hardest type hands to bid is the one that belongs in five of a minor suit. Somehow or other no one likes to try for an 11-trick game in preference to one in notrump or a major suit, so when a pair gets to five of a minor there is a strong tendency to go on to six and hope for the best.

Today's hand illustrates a really old convention that makes it easy to stop at a minor-suit game.

South has almost enough for a forcing opening, but just bids one club. North has a normal one-heart response whereupon South shows his great strength by jumping to two spades.

North rebids to three clubs to show his club support and now the convention comes into use.

South simply jumps to five clubs. This bid says, "Partner, I have two diamond losers. If you have first-round diamond control please bid five diamonds to show it; if you have second-round control please bid six clubs."

North is looking at two quick diamond losers and passes.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader asks if there is a convention known as "The big diamond."

There are several bidding systems that use both one-club and one-diamond openings as artificial forcing bids. They are extremely complicated and none have been given any acceptance except by the inventor.

Why Consolidated Edison Co. has the miseries

NEW YORK (AP) — When the crowds gathered on Manhattan's Lower East Side in 1882 to see whether Thomas Edison's electric lights would work, few could have predicted that 95 years later the city would be crippled when the lights went out.

Shortly after Edison's successful experiment, the forerunner of the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York began service in lower Manhattan.

Soon, Con Ed was supplying electricity to all of New York City, except the small Rockaway peninsula in Queens, and most of Westchester County. Con Ed also supplies gas to parts of the city and Westchester; and steam, used for heating and cooling, in Manhattan.

But Con Ed finds itself on a treadmill. As the firm, by some measures the largest U.S. power company, solves one problem, the complications of 20th century life in a major American city present others.

While the company claims to have fewer power failures than most utilities, its outages are more dramatic than others.

Last week's failure, the second blackout to strike Con Ed in 12 years, came in the midst of an excrutiating heat wave and only three days after Chairman Charles Luce said the utility was in excellent shape.

Through the 1960s, the firm had been accused of insensitivity to its customers, discriminatory hiring practices and inefficient management. After the 1965 blackout which dimmed the whole Northeast, Con Ed's reliability also came into question.

Luce, who took over in 1967, has worked for years to brighten Con Ed's tarnished reputation, but the personal and social disruptions caused by the latest blackout resurrected questions about Con Ed from analysts, state and federal officials and many New Yorkers.

Company officials blamed last week's outage on a series of lightning strikes on key transmission lines. An examination of the underlying causes, however, reveals many basic problems beset the company.

Con Ed's electric system is the largest in the United States in terms of revenue collected, $2.88 billion in 1976, and the amount of money invested in the company's facilities, $5.5 billion in plants alone.

But Con Ed's size alone — the utility has almost 3 million electricity customers — is part of its problem. Because of the congestion of the metropolitan area, 77,000 miles of the utility's 111,000 miles of cables are underground. That's 10 times more underground cables than the next utility has.

An underground cable costs about 10 times more to install and maintain than overhead lines. It is hard to work on, delaying recovery from a massive blackout — one reason why it took 25 hours to restore full service last week.

And the unique conditions in present-day New York contribute even more to Con Ed's problems:

—Serving millions of commuters, Con Ed needs much more power during the 9 a.m.-5 p.m. business day than during other times. But because there isn't much big industry to use the same power during other hours — and one reason for that, ironically, is Con Ed's high rates — the generators used from 9 to 5 sit idle for the rest of the day.

—To meet the city's air pollution standards, Con Ed in 1976 burned one of the most expensive fuels, low-sulfur oil, for 70 per cent of its generating power. The average for other utilities was 16 per cent.

—Last year, Con Ed used nuclear power for 6 per cent of its electricity and natural gas for 1 per cent. The rest, 23 per cent, was purchased from other utilities.

Company officials say it often is cheaper to buy excess power from other utilities than for Con Ed to produce its own, and they are required by state law to seek such cheaper outside power.

But such dependence on outside power was a large contributing factor to last week's blackout. At that time, Con Ed was using overhead transmission lines to bring in one-third of its electricity from upstate New York and New England.

When those lines were damaged by lightning, Con Ed was unable to deal with the resulting power crunch.

—Con Ed's annual taxes are more than three times the average paid by other utilities. Fuel and taxes account for 60 per cent of each electric bill, and those bills are getting higher and higher.

A large industrial firm using 450,000 kilowatt hours each month would pay 6.71 cents per kilowatt hour in New York City. In Chicago, the firm would pay 2.75 cents per kilowatt hour; in Miami, 2.92 cents per kilowatt hour.

A residential customer using 650 kilowatt hours would pay 8.63 cents per kilowatt hour in New York City, 4.29 cents per kilowatt hour in Chicago and 4.18 cents per kilowatt hour in Miami.

The situation does not tend to encourage large industrial plants in Con Ed's territory and is one of many reasons for the flight of big business from New York.

All of the firm's problems seemed to mesh in 1974 during a recession caused, in part, by soaring fuel prices. In April 1974, Con Ed stunned analysts by suspending its dividend to common stockholders, saying its fuel costs were increasing faster than could be recovered from customers and citing difficulties in collecting bills.

Four investigations were begun. New York Mayor Abraham Beame accused the firm of "gross negligence," and impetus was added to an attempt by Westchester County officials to study the feasibility of county-owned electric distribution.

Blistering temperatures can be dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The blistering temperatures plaguing much of the nation are dangerous as well as uncomfortable.

The National Center for Health Statistics reports that the effects of heat killed 190 Americans in 1975, the latest year for which figures are available.

The body cools itself by pushing blood nearer the skin surface to radiate heat and through sweat, which evaporates and thus makes you feel cooler.

Too much heat can short-circuit the body's cooling system, resulting in several different problems.

Here, from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, is a guide to some heat-connected health problems and symptoms and advice on what to do about them:

HEAT ASTHENIA — Easy fatigue, headache, mental and physical inefficiency, poor appetite, insomnia, heavy sweating, high pulse rate, shallow breathing and sometimes circulatory stress in ill persons. First aid: Respite from the heat, plenty of fluids; if sweating is heavy and no dietary restrictions prevent it, a salt tablet; plenty of rest.

HEAT CRAMPS — Painful spasms of voluntary muscles, contraction in flexor muscles in fingers, then larger muscles in legs and abdomen. Pupils may dilate with each spasm, there may be heavy sweating, skin becomes cold and clammy. First aid: Muscles usually respond better to firm pressure than kneading, application of warm towels also helps. Three to four doses of salt solution (½ teaspoon salt in 4 ounces of water) may help. Large doses of water without salt may precipitate the attack.

HEAT EXHAUSTION — Profuse sweating, weakness, vertigo and sometimes heat cramps. Skin is cold and pale, clammy with sweat, blood pressure is low. Body temperature is normal or subnormal. There may be vomiting. First aid: Move to a cooler spot immediately, provide bed rest and salt solution. Seek medical help for severe heat exhaustion.

HEAT STROKE — Weakness, vertigo, nausea, headache, heat cramps, mild heat exhaustion, excessive sweating which stops just before stroke, then body temperature rises sharply. Pulse is bounding and blood pressure elevated. Coma and delerium are common. The face is ashen. First aid: Heat stroke is a very serious emergency, medical care is needed. Move the victim indoors to a cooler area, remove clothing and put victim in bed. Use an ice bath or sponging with alcohol to lower temperature. Summon a doctor or get victim to a hospital quickly, delay can be fatal.

DRY CLEANING — The National Cancer Institute says the most commonly used dry cleaning fluid causes cancer in mice and may be harmful to laundry patrons and workers.

The NCI findings, due to be published in the Federal Register about Sept. 1, are based on a two-year test of perchloroethylene, or "perc."

Up to 65 per cent of the male mice who lived through the testing got liver cancers. Forty per cent of the female mice developed cancer. The NCI said 100,000 workers could be threatened, as could customers of the country's 18,000 coin-operated cleaning establishments.

Dry cleaning spokesmen called "perc" safe and said the only practical substitute would violate fire codes in most cities.

The Dow Chemical Co., which makes "perc," said Dow studies in which rats breathed vapor concentrations three-to-six times those now permitted in the workplace produced no cancers.

ADDITIVE LIMIT COMMENTS — Next Tuesday is the deadline for comments on a Food and Drug Administration plan to limit use of the food additive butylated hydroxytoluene (BHT).

The additive is used to keep fats and oils in foods from becoming rancid. It appears in margarines and oils, jams and jellies, nut products, breakfast cereals, snack foods, frozen dairy products, chewing gum and processed fruits and vegetables.

The agency says it wants to limit BHT to current uses until new tests on the safety of the product can be made. Officials said there has been no new evidence that BHT may be unsafe at current levels of use, but the FDA's continuing review of all food products which are generally regarded as safe has led scientists to urge further tests of BHT.

If you want to comment on the limit write to the Hearing Clerk, Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md., 20857.

A 'weighty' tie theft

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Police here were investigating two weighty crimes Thursday: the theft of 700 used railroad ties and the mysterious moving of a cement loading dock.

The 122,000 pounds of ties, worth an estimated $7,000, disappeared in a 48-hour period from a storage area in nearby Hanover Township, police said.

A Greenville, S.C., trucking company, reported the disappearance of the ties. The firm estimated it would have taken three semi-truck loads to carry away the loot.

Police said they had no idea what use the thieves would have for the ties.

In the second big crime report, officials of the DCA Food Industries wholesale distribution center said their 30foot-wide cement loading dock had been moved five inches off its foundation by some unknown source.

They estimated it would cost $7,000 to get the dock back into its normal position.

The Dodger chase resumes tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Having disposed of the American League in another All-Star Game, all the National League stars get back today to the more important business of settling the divisional races.

"Nobody knows what the future holds," said Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. But if the last 70 games are anything like the first 92, Lasorda won't have any complaints. In the only major league race that isn't close, the Dodgers hold a commanding 9½-game lead over the two-time world champion Cincinnati Reds in the National League West.

"I'm hoping we can maintain it, but there's still a long way to go," said Lasorda, who has seen previous Dodgers' teams succumb to the persisent patter of Cincinnati footsteps.

"I'm not surprised by our big lead because we have a good ball club. Our guys worked hard in spring training and it's been a tremendous 25-man effort."

Since their blazing 22-4 start, however, the Dodgers have been merely a 37-29 team, a .561 pace. "We haven't hit recently and I've been unable to give Steve Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell and Dusty Baker a rest due to the fact that some of our other guys have been hurt," Lasorda noted.

The Reds wouldn't mind seeing the Dodgers play .561 baseball the rest of the way.

"I figure that if they play .600, we've got to play over .700," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson. "We've got to play like heck. I think we have to win 50 of our 73 games, and that's not an easy chore when you're only 48-41. We're capable of it, but I think that they're going to have to stagger a little for us to catch them.

"They are catchable, but you have to face reality—they are catchable if we put on a barn-burner of our own."

Despite the recent addition of Tom Seaver, the Reds' pitching has to be the biggest disappointment, Anderson said. "There's no way else it could be. We're doing everything we did offensively and we're a better defensive team than before. I've tried to look at every other thing, but when your defense is improved and offensively you're doing everything you were doing before ... "

In the NL East, the lead of the surprising Chicago Cubs has dwindled from 8½ to two games over defending champion Philadelphia in the last few weeks.

"We haven't been playing too good," admitted pitcher Rick Reuschel, one of the NL's top winners with 12 victories. "But we're still in first place and that's a pretty good indication that if we can ride through this slump we should be okay.

"Our pitching hasn't been as good as it was and we're not scoring many runs. It seems like we're getting behind in the first inning in two out of three games, and we're always playing come-from-behind. I think maybe it depends on which team can sustain a streak the longest."

"I think it will be as close as it was in the first half, all jumbled up. I still think four clubs will be in it pretty much," said Phillies Manager Danny Ozark, noting that the Pittsburgh Pirates were only five games off the pace with the St. Louis Cardinals eight back.

"We have to go out on a sustained drive and win six or seven games in a row," said Ozark. "Pittsburgh has surprised me because their pitching went sour a little bit. St. Louis has a lot a young players who haven't been through this before and a lot depends on Ted Simmons, Keith Hernandez and Ken Reitz staying away from injuries.

"Our club got a lot of things settled in the last few weeks, especially now that Tug McGraw is off the disabled list and back in the bullpen. The Cubs haven't really surprised me. The only question is whether the summer heat will wear them out playing only day games in their park. Their starting pitchers have always kept them in the game pretty good, but when you have to rely on pitching and defense in that park, it's tough to say you're going to contain the opposition to three or four runs."

Orioles, Sox fool experts

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, overlooked in preseason pennant predictions, will attempt to keep fooling the experts when the American League division races resumed today.

"I don't see anybody running off and hiding in either division," said Chicago Manager Bob Lemon whose White Sox led the defending champion Kansas City Royals by 2½ games in the AL West, with the Minnesota Twins five games behind.

Third baseman George Brett of the Royals, for one, doesn't think the White Sox can hold on.

"I'd have to say we're favored even though we're 2½ games back," said Brett, buoyed by a six-game winning streak which the Royals hoped to continue now that the All-Star break was over.

"I'd have to say we're coming. We've come a long way since the start of the season and we're playing the best baseball we have all year. It seems like when the trading deadline passed last month we started playing better.

"It was like we were waiting for the club to make some kind of move, and when they didn't, we realized we'd have to sink or swim with the players we had and we decided to all swim together.

"If we did it last year, we can do it again. There are a lot of ifs, ands, and buts, but lately they have all been good. Our pitching is more stable than Chicago's. We open in Detroit, and if we play good there, the momentum should stay with us."

Pitching apparently will be the decisive factor, in both the AL West and in the East, where the Orioles led the Boston Red Sox by one-half game and the New York Yankees by three games.

"Whoever gets the pitching will win," said Lemon, a Hall of Fame pitcher.

"No one in the West has had outstanding pitching," added Chicago outfielder Richie Zisk. "You can't expect us or Kansas City or Minnesota to go out and keep scoring five or six runs a game. You've got to win the 2-1 games."

Minnestoa's Rod Carew agreed.

"There no sense scoring five and six runs a game if your pitching isn't going to hold the other team," said the Twins' first baseman, the major league's leading batter with a .394 average. "Our pitching has been a little slack. We have to be more consistent."

In many quarters, the White Sox and Orioles weren't even picked to finish in the first division, but Lemon said he "thinks everybody takes us seriously now." And Baltimore outfielder Ken Singleton said, the Orioles "are playing a lot better than the last two years when we supposedly had a better team.

"Nobody picked us, and in a way that eliminated a lot of pressure. We've won a lot of close games with timely hitting, good pitching and good defense. I hope we continue surprising people."

The Red Sox have relied thus far on the home run bats of George Scott, Jim Rice, Butch Hobson, Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk. But Yastrzemski said: "If we get pitching like we had on our last road trip, good consistent pitching, we'll be okay. We got to play good solid, mistake-free baseball and we have a couple of real tough months coming up."

Manager Billy Martin of the crisis-ridden Yankees said: "We have to be a little more consistent in our pitching and our over-all play ... and I think we're capable of both."

Dodgers long gone

Now that the All-Star Game is pleasant history, baseball can settle down to the more significant job of contesting the second half of the season, with one question paramount:

Who is going to head off Tom Lasorda's loose, supremely confident and rampaging Los Angeles Dodgers?

The Cubs and White Sox, with their fragile two-game divisional leads, conceivably could falter in their bids for an unbelievable Chicago World Series. The Baltimore Orioles still face a scramble with the talent-rich but internally troubled Yankees and the free-swinging Red Sox in the American League East.

But the doughty Dodgers, they look long gone.

In a tempestuous year of free agent wheeling and dealing, bickering among the instant millionaires, defections of superstars and general state of unrest, Manager Lasorda has hit upon a rare chemistry with the Dodgers.

The jovial, loquacious Lasorda, who succeeded the dour and professorial Walter Alstn, insists he is no Houdini. He hasn't done it with mirrors. He never saw the indian rope trick.

"I am just the luckiest man in the world," he said during a break in his coaching duties with the National Leaguers in the All-Star Game. "I'm a first-year manager, a beat-up third-string pitcher and son of an Italian immigrant.

"I can't hit for this team, I can't pitch and I can't field. They do it all themselves. I am just like a father sitting at the head of a large table. This is a team that is like a big, happy family."

The swarthy native of Norristown, Pa., said that when he inherited the club from the highly respected Alston, he imposed only two precepts.

Togetherness

"I told every player that he was No. 1, that he was somebody. I made every guy believe in himself," he said, "then I instilled a spirit of togetherness. That's the important thing about this team—togetherness.

"I told them if you take 25 players pulling on a rope, they can drag off any team in the league. But if you have 13 going one way and 12 pulling the other, you go nowhere."

The formula has put the Dodgers 9½ games ahead of the champion Cincinnati Reds.

"Reggie Smith kicked around quite a bit, never realizing what a fine talent he is," the Dodgers' skipper said. "Now he knows. Everybody thought I was out of my mind when I told Steve Garvey to start swinging for the fences. They said it was like changing God. Garvey has become a home run hitter."

Don Sutton, who pitched three scoreless innings in the National League's 7-5 All-Star victory over the American League, said Los Angeles' success could be attributed to the "Needle Mafia."

"We've got a half-dozen or more needlers on this club," he said. "The main ones are Reggie Smith and Boog Powell. They've got needles that are not just sharp but jagged.

"As soon as somebody gets a fat head, they move in and bust it. Nobody is immune. Not long ago a paper interviewed Garvey and called him Sir Lancelot. The guys kidded Steve to death, referring to him as 'Lance.'

"It's got so none of us wants to get our names in the paper because we know what a ribbing we will have to take. But it's good.

"No prima donnas on this team. The guys wouldn't stand for it."

Dodgers honor Robinson

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers will open a nine game homestand tonight with a salute to all-time baseball great Jackie Robinson.

It will be Jackie Robinson Night at Dodger Stadium, with ceremonies prior to the 7:30 p.m. game marking the 30th anniversary of Robinson's Major League debut with the Dodgers.

Participating in the ceremonies will be baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, National League President Charles Feeney, Mayor Tom Bradley, City Councilman John Ferraro and four former teammates of Robinson — Dodger vice president Al Campanis, Jim Gilliam, Duke Snider, and Don Newcombe. Newcombe will serve as the master of ceremonies of the pre-game program.

Also in attendance will be Jackie's widow, Mrs. Rachel Robinson and their daughter Sharon; and Jackie's brother and sister, Mack Robinson and Willa Mae Walker.

All fans in attendance will receive a four-page pictorial brochure featuring highlights of Robinson's career.

It was in 1947 that Robinson became the first black player in modern Major League history as a member of the Dodgers.

Coinciding with the 30th anniversary tribute, a Jackie Robinson Foundation has been established to perpetuate some of Jackie's goals, including educational, cultural and recreational opportunities. The primary thrust will be toward young people of all races and nationalities.

The starters for tonight's game will be Burt Hooton (8-3) for the Dodgers and Steve Rogers (8-8) for the Expos. The Montreal series continues Friday night with Rick Rhoden (10-6) facing Jackie Brown (6-7) at 7:30 and Don Sutton (10-4) meeting Stan Bahnsen (5-2) on Saturday at 6 p.m.

The New York Mets will be in for a brief two-game set on Sunday (1 p.m.) and Monday (7:30 p.m.), followed by the Philadelphia Phillies, who will meet the Dodgers four times to close out the homestand. The Dodgers and Phils will meet in a twi-night doubleheader on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m., and then in single games on Wednesday (7:30 p.m.) and Thursday (1 p.m.).

This weekend will be Helmet Weekend at Dodger Stadium, with free Dodger batting helmets being given out to all youngsters (14 and under) at the Friday, Saturday and Sunday games.

Aztecs' star happy to be here

Bullets send David to U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An incident with rebel terrorists and whizzing bullets in his native Trinidad helped Steve David, the North American Soccer League's top scorer this season, decide to pursue his career in the United States.

"Really, I never wanted to leave Trinidad, but something that happened one day changed my mind," said David, the former Trinidad national team star who nows plays for the Los Angeles Aztecs.

He recounted how, as a sargeant specializing in fingerprinting on the Point Fortin, Trinidad police force, he was pressed into duty on a posse that was searching for 15 armed revolutionaries.

While combing the rugged foothills, he suddenly found himself caught in a crossfire, bullets flying just over his head. His uncle, also on the posse, was hit in the arm.

David escaped unharmed, but he decided that was the end of dodging bullets for him.

The NASL's Most Valuable Player for the Miami Toros in 1975, David was purchased outright by the Aztecs this year and is leading the league with 22 goals and 48 points in 21 games.

David, 26, is not one of the league's more flamboyant or colorful players, but he may be its quickest. As a kid, he recalled, he used to race and frequently beat a neighbor named Hasely Crawford — who became the 100-meter champion at the Montreal Olympics.

David credits his speed with making him a "better-than-average player" and said it gives him the ability to break open a game.

He also gives credit for his success with the Aztecs to teammate George Best, the former European superstar.

"I couldn't ask for a better teammate than George," David said. "With him setting you up, it is easy to score goals."

Despite his success in the NASL, David's fame and salary hardly rank with that of such aging soccer superstars as Best or Pele.

"Sometimes I think about that," David said. "In this league you are often rewarded for your name, not your ability.

"But those people worked hard for what they are getting. They established themselves over the years. I don't want to take away their glory; I just want to build my own glory."

Injury sidelines Cub ace Sutter

CHICAGO (AP) — Bruce Sutter, the Chicago Cubs' relief ace who leads the National League with 25 saves, may be sidelined for 10 days because of a back injury.

A club spokesman said Sutter, who missed Tuesday night's All-Star game because of the injury, was examined Wednesday by team physician Dr. Jacob Suker. The injury was diagnosed as a hemorrhaged muscle in the right-hander's back, the spokesman said.

Although the injury is painful when Sutter lifts his pitching arm, Sukor said the injury does not involve shoulder muscles used in pitching. Sutter was advised, however, not to throw until the injury can be reexamind, probably next Monday, the spokesman said.

Sutter has compiled a 5-1 record with an earned run average of 1.11 for the Cubs, who lead the NL East by two games over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ryan faces Twins tonight

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Nolan Ryan will seek his 14th victory of the season tonight when the California Angels oppose the Minnesota Twins in the opener of a three-game series.

Opposing Ryan, 13-8, will be Minnesota's Dave Goltz, 10-6.

The Angels are 42-46 as they return from the All-Star break. California is 11 games behind the Chicago White Sox in the American League's Western Division.

The Twins are 50-42, five games off the pace.

The Angels' road trip includes three games against the Twins, two in Seattle against the Mariners and three in Oakland against the A's.

Knox takes look at Wendell Tyler

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles rookie Wendell Tyler, the leading career ground gainer in UCLA history, was among a number of running backs getting a look from Coach Chuck Knox Wednesday as the Rams went through two practice sessions.

Knox put his team through a dummy scrimmage for the last half-hour of an afternoon practice that lasted more than two hours, and he concentrated on watching the new running backs in camp, a Rams spokesman said.

Tyler, a 5-foot-10, 188-pound speedster who was a third-round pick by the Rams, was among the most impressive newcomers, carrying for good gains on a couple of sweeps.

Other rookie runners being observed were Art Best, a sixth-round pick who played at Notre Dame then finished his college career at Kent State, and Ron Jamerson of Southern Cal.

Jamerson, signed as a free agent, was a defensive back at USC but has been switched to offense by the Rams.

There are 41 first-year players and 21 veterans currently in the Ram camp, with the rest of the squad slated to report Friday.

Jackson faces duty as DH

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees is thinking about using $3 million All-Star outfielder Reggie Jackson as the Yankees designated hitter against left-handed pitching.

Martin insinuated the move Wednesday when he said, "I can't say for sure, but I want to use more of my players."

The proposed move would give outfielders Paul Blair and Lou Piniella more playing time and possibly strengthen the Yankees in right field.

Soccer fans host W. German team

Soccer fans in Claremont will play host to the Solingen, West Germany team for eight days beginning Tuesday.

Last summer Otto Rieger and Bim Jollymour of Claremont took a team to West Germany. During a three-week tour, the Claremont team played Berlin, Munich and communities along the Rhine River.

The Solingen team, consisting of 22 boys 15 to 19 years old and six adults (coaches and chaperons), will play three games during its stay in Claremont.

The games, all at Webb School with 6 p.m. starts, will be against South Torrance, Thursday, July 28; Claremont, Saturday, July 30, and the Claremont High team, Tuesday, August 2.

There will be no admission charge for the games. The Thursday, July 28 game with Claremont will be a rematch with the team that went to West Germany last year.

The Solingen team, which arrived in San Francisco July 19, is currently touring the coast on its way here. After leaving Claremont, the German team will travel to Las Vegas and San Diego before returning to West Germany

Pomona American advances to finals

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Thanks to the strong right arm of pitcher Richard Yett, Pomona American has yet to lose in the District 20 Senior Division Tournament.

DISTRICT 20 at La Verne College

Wednesday's result

Pomona American 7, Glendora South Hills 0

Tonight's game

Glendora South Hills vs. Pomona National, 6:30 p.m. (loser eliminated).

Friday's game

Diamond Bar vs. Glendora South Hills-Pomona National winner (loser eliminated).

Saturday's game

Pomona American vs. winner of loser's bracket, 10 a.m. (if second game necessary, 1 p.m.).

Yett fired a three-hit shutout in leading American to a 7-0 win over Glendora-South Hills Wednesday evening at La Verne College.

With the victory, American advanced to the finals on Saturday at 10 a.m. with an unblemished 3-0 record so far in tournament action.

Yett struck out eight batters, while walking three, as he kept Glendora-South Hills at bay all night long.

American scored four unearned runs in the third inning, as it sent nine hitters to the plate.

Robert Sanchez opened that frame with a walk. Vince Cabrera singled to right field to put runners on first and second. Two outs later the trouble started for Glendora-S.H.

A little blooper to shortstop (hit by Loyd Falgout) was misplayed allowing Sanchez to score. As the runners ended up at second and third following the error, they both tallied on Carey Shepherd's base hit to right field.

After a single by Bill Eldridge, Gabriel Rodriguez hit a ball off the shortstop's glove, which was scored as an error, to bring home Shepherd.

American had seven hits, including two apiece by Loyd Falgout and Eldridge.

Yett worked out of a tough spot in the last of the third, when Glendora-S.H. put runners at second and third with one out.

He then got Jeff Sandefur to hit a grounder to first base and struck out Brian Gore to wrap up the frame unharmed.

American padded its margin in the seventh. Three consecutive walks jammed the bases and, with one down, Eldridge singled to bring in a pair of runners.

An error on Ricky Murillo's grounder allowed American to score its final run.

Glendora-S.H. will meet Pomona National tonight at 6:30 p.m. at La Verne College, with the loser eliminated from the tourney.

Softball tourney in quarterfinals

The Westmont Girls and the Roadrunners advanced to the quarter finals of the Parks and Recreation Department's City Softball Tournament.

The Westmont Girls exploded for 23 runs Wednesday night as they romped to a 23-1 win over Tucker's Angels. The Roadrunners defeated Gordon's Angels 8-2 in the tournament for boys and girls 12 and under.

The boys return to action today as the Bulldogs meet the Dodgers and the Devils take on the Kings in 5:30 p.m. contests at Ralph Welch Park. Roy's Deli will play the Mean Green boys team at Westmont. The game is also scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m.

The girls will return to action Friday.

Hillman top Jets' candidate

WINNIPEG (AP) — Former defenseman Larry Hillman reportedly is the leading candidate for the vacant coaching position with the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

According to a reports in Tuesday's editions of the Winnipeg Free Press, he has been recommended for the head coaching job at Winnipeg by the Jets players, including Bobby Hull and team captain LarsErik Sjoberg.

Bobby Kromm, who coached Winnipeg last year, resigned to become head coach of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Chino Hills wins

Chino Hills opened the District 23 Little League (San Bernardino County) Area/District Tournament with a victory Wednesday night over Ontario Central.

Chino Hills' E. Evors slugged two home runs to lead the Chino squad to an 8-4 decision over the Ontario squad at Kingsley Park in Montclair.

The winner of tonight's contest between Ontario Western and Ontario International will face the Chino Hills squad July 27 at Kingsley field.

The winner of the tourament will advance to the Section 6 tournament to be played at the Little League Western Region Headquarters in San Bernardino.

Evors slugged home runs in both the second and third innings with a man aboard. He drove in four runs as Chino Hills built a 5-2 lead through the three innings.

Kurt James pitched six innings to pick up the victory as he fanned eight Ontario Central batters.

Tigers recall Corcoran

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers recalled outfielder Tim Corcoran today from their Evansville, Ind., farm for the second time this season.

Corcoran, 24, replaced catcher Bruce Kimm on the roster. Kimm was optioned to Rochester of the International League on Monday after pitcher Mark Fidrych developed tendinitis. Kimm, hitting .080, had been used solely to catch Fidrych.

Corcoran started the season with Evansville and was brought up on May 18. He played in 27 games and hit .226 with two home runs and eight runs batted in before heading back to the American Association farm on July 10.

Boys sinks two aces

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Oran Brown of San Diego sank two holes in one Wednesday, but still wound up seven strokes behind Kenny Flint of Santa Maria, in the boys' 10-and-under competition at the Junior World Golf Championships.

Brown carded a nine-hole score of 52, giving him an 18-hole total of 108. Flint fired a 51 Wednesday and has a two-day total of 101, 11 shots under par.

Corey Pavin of Oxnard, with a two-day total of 142, held a two-stroke lead over Craig Davis of Valencia, Calif., in the boys' 15-to-17 division. Pavin fired an even-par 72 Wednesday.

Dale Riley of Hawaii was four strokes back at 146.

Mary Murphy of Naples, Fla., was leading the girls' 15-17 division after carding a 76 Wednesday for a 36-hole score of 149, one stroke ahead of Lulong Hartley of Oceanside, Calif.

A new leader emerged Wednesday in the boys' 11-12 division when Barrett Johnson of Indio, added a 59 to a previous 58. Ron Cantor, who led opening day, was five strokes back in a four-way tie for third at 122.

Heather Farr of Phoenix, with a two-day total of 126, held a one-stroke lead over Brenda Corrie of the Dominican Republic in the girls' 11-12 division.

Today's rounds were to determine the cut in most divisions.

German team wins

OAKLAND (AP) — West German superstar Gerd Muller scored two key goals to lead Bayern Munich to a 4-2 exhibtion soccer victory over the Mexico National team Wednesday night.

Muller, nicknamed "The Bomber," thrilled a crowd of 22,000 fans in the Oakland Coliseum. He scored once in the first half and then batted in a shot with his head in the second stanza to provide his team's winning tally.

The Mexican team got first half scores from Arturo Ayala and Javier Cardenas. They held a 2-1 lead until Muller scored his first half shot just before the break.

Munich's Branko Oblak joined Muller in leading the German attack as he added a pair of goals, including a second-half insurance score.

The fast-moving offensive battle was kept from being a goalfest by strong work in the box by German goalkeeper Sepp Maier and Mexico's Francisco Castrejon. Both provided several diving saves.

Muller was the leading scorer for West Germany in the 1974 World Cup final. Bayern Munich and Mexico battled to a 2-2 tie last month in a game which sparked controversy because of an officiating decision.

Kicking around

with Adrian Mercado and Willy Keo

WE STOPPED AT THE AYSO SUMMER SOCCER CAMP AT UC RIVERSIDE, AND what we saw is best described as coming right out of the pages of a storybook. The youngsters ranging in age between eight and 13 were having a ball . . . all the food and ice cream they can eat, all the swimming they can do, sharing a college dorm with a new friend, and playing soccer, soccer, and more soccer.

It was especially rewarding to find among the coaching staff local high school grads Gesner Do Carmo and Casey Roberts of Claremont High and Ganesha's David Segura. Gesner attends Chapman College, Casey attends Westmont College, and David attends Cal State Fullerton. Not long ago these very same staff members were daisy pickers and grass throwers at local fields and now they represent the vanguard of a new generation of soccer leadership.

A tip of the KICKIN' AROUND hat to all those soccer pioneers who contributed to the development of soccer in this area. They tilled the soil, planted the seed and nursed the young seedling until today the results of their labors are beginning to bear fruit.

The next sessions begin on July 24, August 14, and 21 . . . oh, to be a kid once more!

AZUSA PACIFIC'S ALL-AMERICAN SOCCER CAMP will be rolling very shortly, and there are still some openings left. The day-only sessions accommodate 60 youngsters each and are headed by co-directors Brian Hunter and David Irby.

Hunter is Ontario High's soccer coach and was a former Damieneer; Irby is Gladstone High's soccer coach. Guest coaches include Luigi Traverso, former assistant coach at Chaffey High and now with Alta Loma High; Bob Storey, coach of Glendora High; Barry Pryor, assistant at Upland High, and Michael Jennings, assistant at Gladstone High. For additional information call Azusa Pacific College in A to Z USA.

CHAFFEY COLLEGE HAS JUST RELEASED ITS SCHEDULE FOR 1977. The season kicks off Saturday, Sept. 10 with a road game against Azusa Pacific College followed by the University of Redlands, La Verne College, Mt. San Antonio (home), Claremont-Mudd (home), USC (home), Long Beach Tourney, Fullerton College (home), Pomona-Pitzer, Palomar (home), Southwestern, Imperial Valley (home), San Diego CC, and other return matches.

Chaffey mentor, Frits Rosenveldt, said "Formerly, no Claremont High player could go to Chaffey College because the Mission Conference which regulates intercollegiate sports for, Chaffey and others, and Citrus College had not adopted soccer as a competitive sport. Now, with the adoption of soccer in the Mission Conference and the fact Citrus elected not to field a soccer team, Claremont High grads can go to Chaffey to play soccer if they are so inclined. All they need is a release from Citrus College in order to become a full-time student at Chaffey since they are taking a subject (soccer), not offered by Citrus.

Soccer practice will start on Tuesday, August 16, and coach Rosenveldt invites all aspirants, male and female, to "take a shot at a spot on the team."

THE L.A. SKYHAWKS HAVE ANNOUNCED THAT THERE WOULD BE SOME VERY important news released at their news conference to be held at the L.A. press club this week. The Skyhawks currently trail league-leading Sacramento by four games in the won column, but they have played four games less than the leaders. The upcoming road trip against New York, New Jersey, and Rhode Island will be critical for the defending champs.

WE RECENTLY RECEIVED GREETINGS FROM ONE AQUI ZUBILLAGA, a soccer pioneer in the U.S. and owner of the inactive ASL franchise Brooklyn Hispano F.C. The letterhead read: "Brooklyn Hispano F.C., founded 1920, U.S. Champions 1943 and 1944; ASL Champions 1943; Lewis Cup Champions 1946." What tradition has the ASL! We wish them luck.

OUR YOUNG OLYMPIC TEAM (all players under 21 years) came back from the 32-team Yugoslavian tournament with heads held high. With teams from 24 countries competing in Rijeka, Yugoslavia the USA was placed in the same bracket as the Yugoslavian team which ultimately won the title. The USA won its first match, the clashed with the winner-to-be and our boys were eliminated in the one-loss-and-you're-out tourney.

Following the loss to the champs the U.S. entry played two exhibition games, defeating Milan and Japan. The Japanese were the only non-Yugoslav team to win its bracket in the tourney proper — made up of eight 4-team divisions, thus the win over Japan was a special bouquet for the American boys who are getting the earliest training any of our Olympic teams have ever had. The accent is on youth and the direction seems wise with the next Olympic finals set for 1980 in Russia. The next and eternal problem is to fathom a way to keep the Iron Curtain countries from using their pros in the "amateur" Olympics. A move is afoot to restrict Olympic players to under age 23 or even under 21. That would eliminate a number of the pros used in Olympic action by Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Russia, Romania, Poland and other European squads. In any case our boys did well in Yugoslavia against youngsters with far more training than we are able to give our boys. Our valley was represented ably by former Claremont AYSO and Damien High allstar, Rick Davis, who will be doing his stuff for Santa Clara University for the next few years.

SANTA CLARA'S EFFERVESCENT COACH DAVE CHAPLIK scouts the Southland with a fine toothcomb and came up with such players as Tony Maggio of South Torrance and Davis to form an all-star junior aggregation which went on to cop the U.S. Junior title in the recent finals in Houston. Davis couldn't be in two places at the same time so he chose Yugoslavia while his Santa Clara University teammates prodded on without him to be only the second west coast team ever to win the U.S. Junior title. It should make Santa Clara an interesting school to watch in the upcoming college season.

THE HEAVY SCORING AZTECS are running into harsh treatment away from home. Two recent setbacks found their vaunted goal-making machine held to one goal per game and the advantage they built up in early season wins by maximum point scores is now dwindling. Strangely, a number of important high-point victories were accomplished prior to the arrival of George Best and Charlie Cooke but now opponents know that stopping Best and Cooke is the way to check the Aztecs.

The NASL system of pitting the third and second place teams in elimination games still gives the Aztecs a good chance to make the playoffs and with a couple heavy-point victories they could still take first place away from Dallas and have the privilege of watching two other clubs knock each other off in the preliminary elimination. The Aztecs feature leading scorer Steve David and leading assists-man Best who can turn it around for the L.A. club in the remaining two-away games (Hawaii and Las Vegas) and the two home-games at the Coliseum . . . vs. San Jose on July 30 and vs. Seattle on August 7. The playoff pairings will clarify in the next two weeks and the big Aztec guns could put them in good position for the NASL final on August 28 in Portland.

DIRECTLY AHEAD we have a plum or two in the Coliseum appearances of world club champs Bayern Munich who go against Mexico's best at 8:30 p.m. Friday, and against Universidad of Guadalajara at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. Now without leader Franz Beckenbauer who is with the Cosmos, the German club nevertheless fields a vaunted team with the world's greatest goal-poacher, Gerd Muller, on display plus World Cup and World Club champ teammates Hoeness, Schwarzenbeck Maier, Roth, Durnberger and the Yugoslav star Oblak.

NORCO — Montclair's Golden Girls Minor Division All-Stars defeated Corona, 14-9, Wednesday night in the opening round of the Norco Girls Softball Tournament.

The Montclair outfit banged out 13 hits to Corona's 12 in the contest.

The three Montclair teams will also participate in the Montclair Golden Girls Ivitational Tournament to be held at Kennedy Field July 29 thru August 7.

The Golden Girls regular softball season ended with two divisional champs. Turner compares trials to war

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Skipper Ted Turner of Courageous stalked back and forth, and compared losing two races to Enterprise in the America's Cup observation trials to nothing less than a World War II battle.

"Just remember this, the Allies had a bad battle—you've seen A Bridge Too Far—but it didn't affect the outcome of the war," said the outspoken owner of the Atlanta Braves.

Unlike the Allies in World War II, Turner wasn't trying Wednesday to take the Arnhem Bridge over the Lower Rhine. He simply wanted to continue his winning ways on the waters of Rhode Island Sound.

Before Wednesday's duel with Enterprise, newest of the United States' 12-meter yachts, Turner had a 3-1 record against Enterprise and Independence in the July observation series.

However, the crew of Enterprise put good tactics and boat speed to work and ended its summer doldrums. Enterprise beat the 1974 defender by 2 minutes, 46 seconds in the first race and 1:24 in the second.

The winning margin in the first race was the biggest of the summer trials. Enterprise had beaten Independence June 21 by 2:41.

"We had a bad day," Turner said. "Everyone's due for one once in a while. We made some tactical mistakes and some other mistakes."

One error that cost Courageous a lot of time happened in the second race when the crew was trying to hoist the spinnaker and the lightweight sail was blown into an hourglass shape.

Meanwhile, a few hundred yards down the waterfront, the crew of Enterprise was given the warmest welcome of the season. Several supporters put together a banner that read: "We knew you could do it."

"We made no mistakes, at least nothing to talk about," said starting helmsman Lowell North. "We sailed good tactical races and we won today."

North had sailed Enterprise across the starting line ahead of Courageous in each of Wednesday's races.

In the first race, however, Courageous caught her on the first weather leg and was clocked rounding the initial mark 26 seconds ahead. Enterprise rebounded on the second 4.5-mile windward leg of the 18-mile course and pulled ahead by 2:34.

It was Enterprise all the way in the second race. The Olin J. Stephens designed yacht gradually stretched her lead at each mark on the triangular, 13.5mile America's Cup course.

Meanwhile, France II and Australia dueled off the coast in a race arranged by the two syndicates. Baron Marcel Bich, ballpoint pen entrepreneur and owner of France I and France II, steered his wood-hulled yacht across the starting line ahead of Australia in the first race but lost the lead quickly.

Because she had jumped the gun, Australia had to turn around and start again. However, on the first beat to windward, Alan Bond's new aluminum-hulled boat quickly caught France II.

France II lost the first race on the 7.5-mile triangular course by 1:20 and the second by about four minutes. France II crossed the starting line too early in the second race and had to start again.

Walton wins June honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Center Bill Walton, who led the underdog Portland Trail Blazers to the National Basketball Association championship over the Philadelphia 76ers, scored a narrow victory Wednesday in the June balloting for the 28th annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" Award.

Walton received 27 first-place votes and 163 points in edging golfer Hubert Green, who captured the U.S. Open. Green had 26 first-place votes and 159½ points in the balloting. Baseball's Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins was third with 146½ points, although he polled 36 first place votes. Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies was fourth.

Previous monthly winners are jockey Steve Cauthen, boxer Jimmy Young, golfer Tom Watson and Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt.

Upland edges Ontario West

The Upland Pioneers edged Ontario West, 3-2, and Fontana blanked Chino, 2-0, in District II Pony League All-Star Playoff games at Montclair's Kennedy Park Wednesday night.

Fontana pitcher John Ramirez was one out away from a perfect game and had fanned 17 in a row before giving up a hit. Loser Dan DeAngelos fanned 17 and had a one-hitter until Fontana blooped two singles.

In games tonight, Chino faces Ontario West at 6 p.m. and Montclair takes on the Upland Pioneers at 8:30 p.m.

N. L. fans smarter?

NEW YORK (AP) — According to Manager Billy Martin, the American League's latest All-Star Game failure "doesn't prove one league is better than the other."

According to first baseman George Scott, all it proves is that the National League has smarter fans, not better players.

Frustrated by another close-but-no-cigar effort when the National League prevailed 7-5 Tuesday night for its sixth consecutive All-Star triumph and 14th in the last 15 games, Martin and Scott pushed for some changes.

Scott wants the voting returned from the fans to the players. Martin wants bigger rosters, especially a larger pitching staff.

In 1933 and 1934, the All-Star managers were empowered to pick their teams, guided by fan voting but in such small numbers that Babe Ruth was the leader with only 10,000 votes.

From 1935 through 1946, the All-Star managers chose the complete lineup without fan assistance. Fans then elected the All-Star starters from 1947 through 1957, when ballot-box stuffing by Cincinnati enthusiasts forced the voting to be turned over to players, managers and coaches. In 1970, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn returned the voting to the public, saying, "The fans should pick the players they want to see."

But Scott put the blame on the fans for the AL's latest defeat, charging "they are not qualified" to pick the starting lineup.

"It's got to change if we want to win this thing," said the Boston slugger, who leads the league with 25 home runs but finished third in the voting at first base. "I guess they (the fans) just don't know the players and the statistics.

"Players should be starting because they are having a big year with the bat. The run-producers should be in there. There's no way Larry Hisle and Jim Rice shouldn't be in there from the start.

"The National League couldn't have had a better lineup. The best hitters were in there at the start and that was the difference. All the National League's heavy artillery was on the field, except for Mike Schmidt; our heavy artillery was sitting on the bench."

Scott pointed out that he and Boston teammate Rice are 1-2 in home runs while Minnesota's Hisle, who leads the league in runs batted in, and New York's Graig Nettles, the defending home run king, are close behind.

"That's almost 90 home runs sitting on the bench, and that's a shame," he said. "You've got to blame the fans. They're the ones who did the voting. We didn't win because we didn't have our best players on the field at the start of the game."

Martin, in making a pitch for larger rosters, said he would prefer a 10-man pitching staff and would like to do away with the rule that all starters, except pitchers, must play at least three innings.

"There should be some rule changes," he said. "Once the game starts, it should be up to the manager. If you had 10 pitchers, you could really make some switches with the players on the bench."

Martin said he didn't yank starting pitcher Jim Palmer during the National League's four-run first inning "because I only had seven pitchers to begin with and I would have been in trouble if the game went into extra innings. So I left him in there. I figured if we got past the first six innings with Palmer and (Dennis) Eckersley, we'd be in good shape. But it didn't work out the way I thought.

"But all it proves is that we got beat 7-5 and that's all. One game doesn't prove one league is better than the other. If there is such a thing, how come the American League has a better record in World Series, when you play seven games?"

Martin received some support from NL Manager Sparky Anderson, who said he would "like to see 40-man teams."

Friars, Soviets play at Anaheim

ANAHEIM — The San Diego Friars led by Rod, "The Rocket" Laver, will meet the Soviet National Team in a World Team Tennis match tonight at the Anaheim Convention Center at 7:30.

Laver, one of the world's greatest tennis players and twice winner of the Grand Slam of Tennis, has now established himself as one of the most popular by attracting large crowds throughout the United States during the WTT season.

The "Rocket," now 38, can boast of recent victories over the best that the world's young tennis crop can offer. He defeated Bjorn Borg 6-3 in a singles match just prior to Borg's successful bid for the Wimbledon crown. Other recent wins by Laver include a 6-1 victory over Vitas Gerulaitis of the Indiana Loves and an exciting 7-6 upset over Ilie Nastase of the Los Angeles Strings.

Tonight will mark the second appearance of the Russian team in Anaheim. The tough but tired Soviets have played a series of one night stands that have taken them to 29 cities in 33 dates.

Despite their discerning record, the Soviets led by Alex Metreveli and Olga Morozova, have played superlative tennis, coming close to victories on several occasions including Sunday night at the Forum when they lost to the Los Angeles Strings 31-30.

The Strings will return to Anaheim to host the San Diego Friars Saturday but without the assistance of Ilie Nastase who will be in France representing his country in Romania's Davis Cup competition.

The San Diego Friars will host the last two matches of Orange County's World Team Tennis schedule. They will meet the Golden Gaters July 28 and the Seaport Cascades on July 30.

Two-time winner Johnny Rutherford of the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile race finished last in the 1977 edition. But he still earned $19,471.58.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks drifted lower Thursday morning because of profit taking that increased following a government report that stirred inflation concerns. Trading was moderate.

The market was hurt by the Labor Department's report that the June Consumer Price Index rose 0.6 per cent, or at a 7.2 per cent annual rate, the same as in May. The increase was higher than some economists had anticipated.

The Labor Department also said the CPI rose at an 8.1 per cent rate in the second quarter, down from the 10 per cent in the first quarter. Both were ahead of the 4.2 per cent rate in 1976's fourth quarter.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 1.21 points Wednesday, was off 1.90 points to 918.58 shortly before noon EDT. In the previous four sessions, the Dow had gained 17.46 points. Some traders were cashing in on those gains.

Declines led advances, 688 to 428, among the 1,644 issues crossing the tape. The 528 unchanged issues reflected investor uncertainty.

Some investors were encouraged the Congressional Budget Office Wednesday predicted the Gross National Product would rise up to 5.1 per cent in 1978. Also, the Commerce Department said personal income increased by $10.4 billion in June from a year ago.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 10,900,000 shares, down from the 13,700,000 traded during the same period Wednesday.

American Motors was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up ¼ to 4⅛ in trading that included a block of 161,900 shares at 4 on the Midwest Stock Exchange. The No. 4 automaker reported a $1.6 million second quarter profit, compared with a $3.9 loss a year ago.

RalstonPurina was the second most active issue, up ¼ to 15⅞ following a block trade of 133,700 shares at 15¾.

Occidental Petr eum was the third most active issue, off ⅞ to 28 after the company reported its second-quarter earnings fell to 69 cents a share from 84 cents a year ago.

Franklin Mint was the fourth most actve issue, off ⅞ to 9¾. The company reported its second quarter earnings plunged to 13 cents a share from 73 cents a year ago.

Continental Corp. was ahead ⅞ and Cyclops ⅝ after reporting higher earnings. Polaroid was off ½, Xerox ⅜ and Fuqua Industries ⅝ despite reporting higher earnings.

Eastman Kodak was ahead 1 in active trading, although the firm late Wednesday reported its second-quarter net fell to 84 cents a share from 87 a year ago.

Mirro Co. and Occidental Petroleum were off ¾ apiece after reporting lower earnings.

J. Ray McDermott was off 2⅜ following published reports the firm is under investigation for alledgedly illegal payoffs.

Prices were mixed in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Houston Oil & Minerals was the most active issue, unchanged at 37¼. Kaiser Industries followed, unchanged at 5⅛. Texstar was third, up ⅛ to 8⅛.

New phone use wins OK

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific Telephone Co. must allow customers to rig customer-owned apparatus to the phone system, the state Public Utilities Commission ruled.

The PUC's action Tuesday expands on a decision made two years ago permitting customers to connect recorders, answering machines, call diverters and other equipment to phone company lines if the equipment meets certain standards.

Extension telephones, private branch exchanges and key telephone systems were included in the new ruling which followed a PUC probe into the economic impact of the interconnections on the phone companies.

The PUC also directed telephone companies to refund part of monies collected from customers who had hooked their own system to the phone system in the past. Refunds are to include seven per cent interest.

Arthur C. Latno, Jr., a PT&T vice president, said the company would "immediately appeal" the PUC's ruling.

Latno said the order "makes a shambles of California's regulatory process and provides another example of why many experts consider California's regulatory climate to be the worst in the country."

The PUC ruling is effective Sept. 6.

Beame seeks federal aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Mayor Abraham Beame is renewing his efforts to get more federal help for the city, including extra funds to help repair damage from last week's blackout.

Beame appeared to be making headway in his request for emergency relief from the power failure.

The Housing and Urban Development Department said it will provide apartments and single-family homes temporarily for an estimated 425 families displaced by the blackout.

HUD Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris said Monday after a meeting with Beame the department also will provide subsidized housing for New Yorkers.

Beame said the government also agreed to delay rent increases for residents at Lincoln Towers, a federally sponsored project for middle income families.

Moreover, Carter has directed his domestic affairs counsel, Jack Watson, to set up a task force to try to work out a program of blackout relief.

No figures were mentioned by the White House. But Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., who met privately with Carter early Tuesday, appealed for $10 million from the Economic Development Authority to restore businesses and to help with other costs from the looting in New York, such as overtime pay for police and firemen.

Moynihan also urged Carter to endorse the Democratic senator's proposal to provide an additional $1 billion this year for states that have particularly costly welfare burdens.

New York would get $176 million. The city spends about $1 billion a year for welfare and Medicaid.

Moynihan said Carter agreed to consider the idea, although Califano said last week the administration opposed it. Carter's welfare reform program, due to take effect in 1981, is intended to hold the line on welfare spending.

At a Senate welfare subcommittee chaired by Moynihan, Beame testified that "we in New York City, and I am sure those in other localities which pay for welfare, cannot wait for implementation of the President's program in 1981."

Rural postoffices center of feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's postmasters and their bosses in Washington are engaged in a running feud over the future of small rural post offices.

The postmasters and the Postal Service have argued for years over whether many of the 30,000 post offices in the United States, mostly in small rural communities, should be closed to save money.

The dispute recently escalated after the Postal Service began embarrassing postmasters by revealing their salaries to local news media. The furious postmasters responded last week with a federal lawsuit, contending the Postal Service is preparing to eliminate many of their jobs.

"We want the public to decide what postal services are needed and whether they are willing to pay for them," Assistant Postmaster General James H. Byrne said.

Postmasters' salaries usually are above $15,000. That makes them among the best-paid groups in small town America. Publication of the salary is an embarrassment to rural postmasters, who usually are well known to everyone in town.

Among front-page headlines have been these: "Iowa Postmasters: The Town Rich Guys" in the Des Moines Register. And "Salaries Big for Small Post Offices" in the Denver Post. These stories included a list of every postmaster in the state — and salaries.

The National League of Postmasters said publication of salaries is "intended to undermine public confidence in the postmasters of small and rural communities and therefore facilitate the closing of such post offices."

In a U.S. District Court suit, the league said, "The effect will be the promotion of jealousy and ill will both for the local post office and for the local postmaster personally." The group wants a court order prohibiting additional salary disclosures.

The league and the National Association of Postmasters, has been active in Congress, arguing against closing of small post offices. They won passage last year of a law ordering a moratorium on closings. The moratorium has expired and the Postal Service is expected to resume a slow reduction in rural post offices.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has said no post office will be closed without assurance that the alternate mail service will be as good.

Bribery try charged

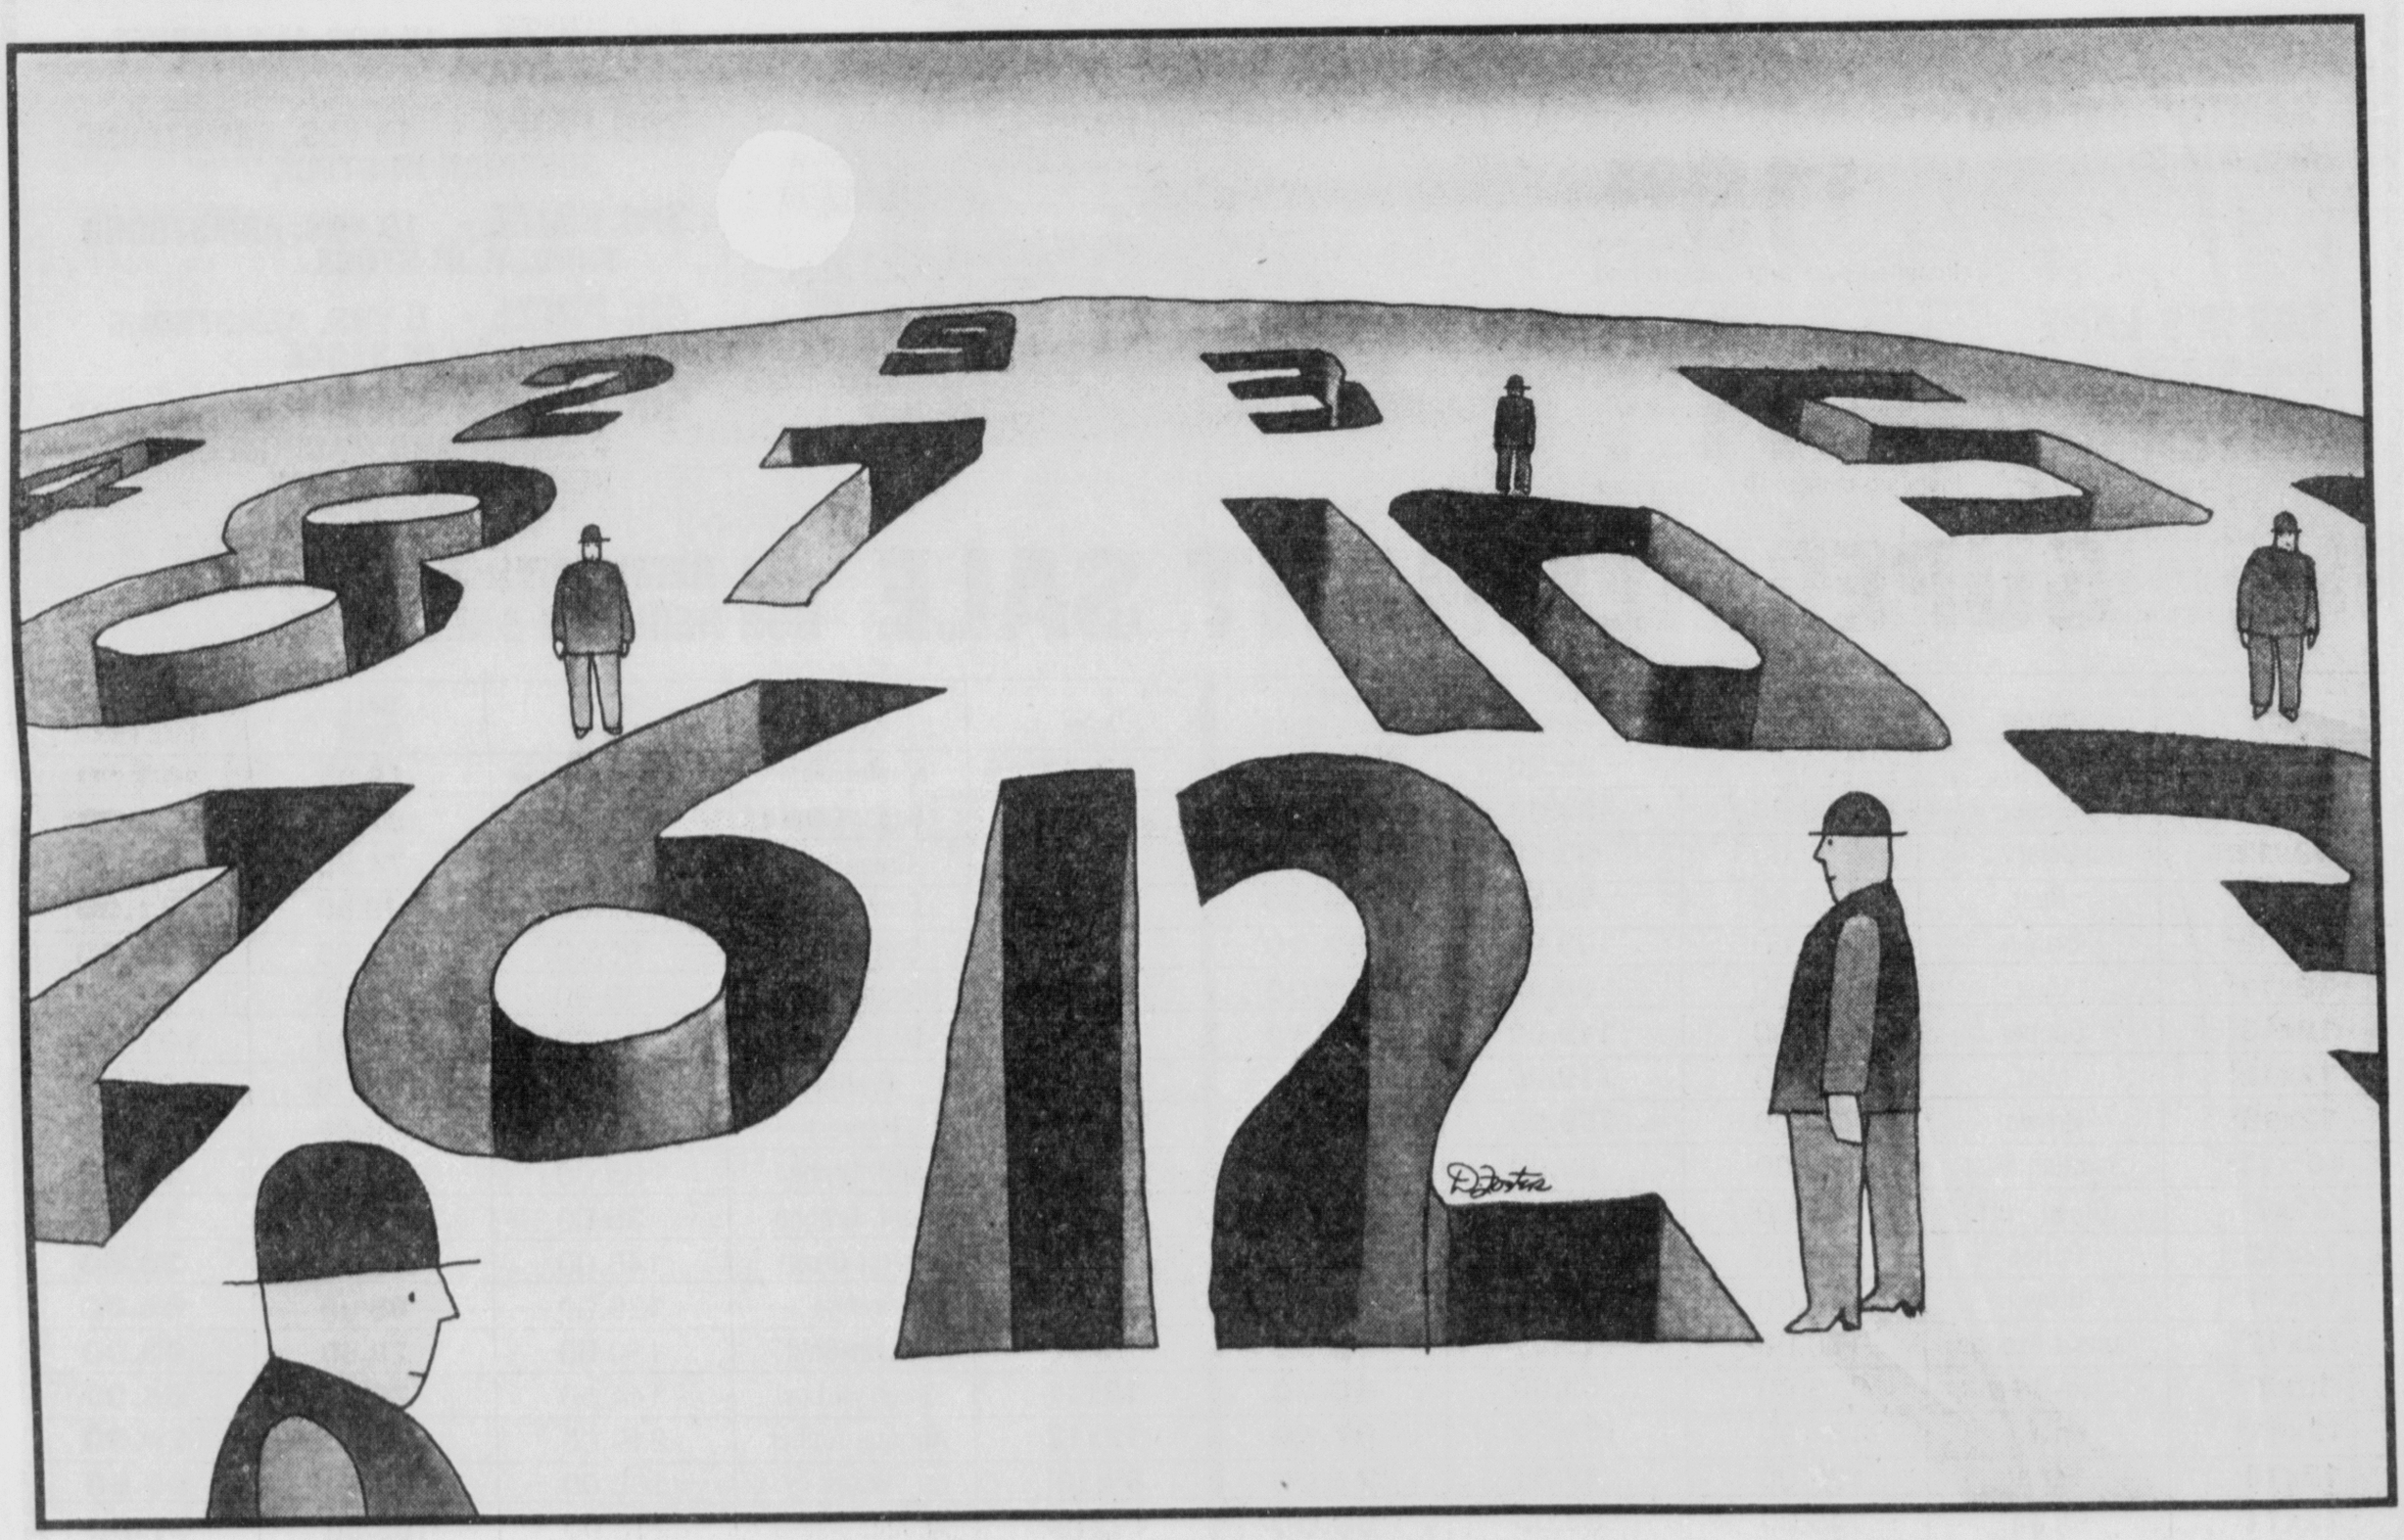
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bail bondsman and his associate have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of trying to bribe a federal judge.

Harold "Hal" Glickman, 43, and James Rowe, 30, both of Los Angeles, were indicted Tuesday on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice after they allegedly offered a judge $50,000 in exchange for a lenient sentence for a drug trafficker.

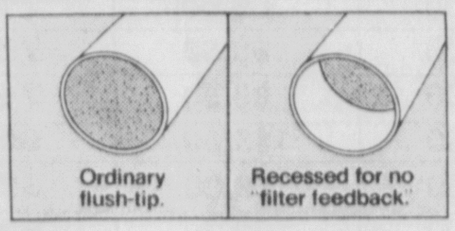
The indictment said they met an undercover investigator for the Los Angeles district attorney's office who was to pass the money to U.S. District Court Judge Albert Lee Stephens.

In return, the indictment said, the judge was expected to impose a light sentence on Philip Izsak, 26, of North Hollywood. The meeting with the undercover investigator was set up through a confidential informant, said Asst. U.S. Atty. Paul G. Flynn.

There's more to choosing a low-tar cigarette than just picking a number.



Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."



As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar build-up flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback." All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.

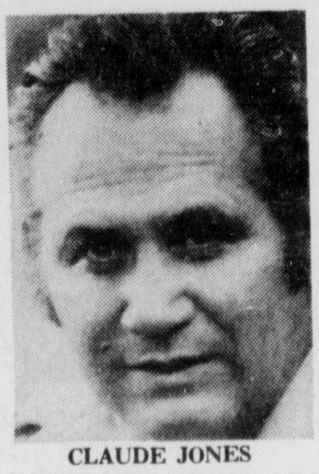
Local actor wins praise

Claude Jones, former Ganesha High School drama instructor and now a professional movie and television actor, appears in the 20th Century-Fox film, "Thunder and Lightning," starring David Carradine and Kate Jackson.

The critic for the Hollywood Reporter wrote, "One delightful performance comes from Claude Jones as a syndicate hitman. Jones' funny voice and natural comic flair really pay off when he talks about watching Captain Kangaroo with his preschool daughter and how he hates violence on TV."



CLAUDE JONES

Television viewers will see more of Jones this fall. Earlier this month he signed for a co-starring role in Able, a new Andy Griffith series.

The beefy six-footer was an All-American linebacker at the University of Arizona but a knee injury ended his hopes as a professional football player, and he turned to his first love, acting. He attended the Pasadena Playhouse, where he roomed with an aspiring unknown named Dustin Hoffman, and earned his master's degree at Cal State Los Angeles.

Jones has performed on Broadway and off-Broadway, toured Europe, spent a year with the prestigious Old Vic Company in London, did summer stock and headed his own Shakespeare company for two summers. He has appeared in several movies and has worked as actor or director on most of the major television shows.

Met Opera has labor trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — The management of the Metropolitan Opera has told 14 unions that the coming season will be canceled unless contract agreements are reached by Sept. 9, a month before the scheduled opening.

One union leader, Philip Sipser, said the Met was pushing the panic button. Another, Philip Steinman, blamed the opera for slowness in reaching agreements.

Anthony Bliss, the Met executive director, said planing for the season will continue only up to Sept. 9, at a cost of $3.2 million. He said the total reserve of the opera now was $5 million after raising $12.5 million to meet last season's deficit.

The scheduled opening is Oct. 10, with a production of "Boris Godunov."

Sipser, who negotiates for Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, which represents the Met's orchestra, said he agreed with Bliss that so far the parties are far apart.

The unions do not think a 4 per cent wage hike offered by the opera is sufficient. Other differences revolve around guaranteed work weeks and numbers of performances.

Expiration date of the current contracts is July 31, but unions saw the Sept. 9 deadline as recognition that the earlier date was not realistic.

Steinman, negotiating for chorus and ballet members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, accused the opera company of canceling and postponing meetings, slowing work toward an agreement.

Irish band concert canceled

The Chieftans, Irish folk band, has postponed its scheduled tour of the United States and will not perform in the Greek Theater Tuesday night.

Ticket holders can get a refund by taking the tickets back to the point of purchase.

Friendly to film 'Backstairs'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ed Friendly Productions has acquired television rights to "My 30 Years Backstairs at the White House," the bestseller by Lillian Rogers Parks.

BUMPY RIDE — John Gaglio, left, Debbie Hall and Shaun Fesler try to take Nedra Volz for a ride in a scene from the Gallery Theater production of "Everybody Loves Opal." The John Patrick comedy plays at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Reservations can be made at 982-5357. The theater is at C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario.

Covina to hold music festival

The 14th annual Covina Festival of Music will open at 8 o'clock tonight with a concert by the Covina Concert Band, conducted by Charles King, in the bandshell of the Covina city park.

The band and the festival were first organized by King, a former Claremonter who has had wide experience in conducting bands, orchestras and operas.

The festival schedule lists concerts by the Shrineaires of Al Malaikah Temple Friday; the Arcadia chapter of Sweet Adelines Saturday; the Monterey Park Band Sunday; Covina Concert Band Monday; Al Malaikah "Million Dollar Band" Tuesday; the Arcadia chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Wednesday; the Long Beach Elks Band next Thursday; the Pasadena chapter of SPEBSQSA July 29; the South Gate City Youth Band July 30, and the 15th Air Force Band July 31.

CHARLES KING

All concerts start at 8 p.m. and admission is free.

Q. "HOW DOES AN ESCALATOR WORK?"

EDDIE PHIBBS
NORFOLK, VA

A. AN ESCALATOR IS AN ENDLESS CHAIN OF MOVING STEPS PULLED ROUND AND ROUND ON ROLLERS BY AN ELECTRIC MOTOR

Escalators are moving stairways that carry people from one floor of a building to another. The word "escalator" was made up from a Latin word meaning ladder.

Such a stairway is basically an endless chain of steps driven by a powerful electric motor. Each step rests on rollers which guide it on a metal track as the chain pulls it along.

AAt the top and bottom, the steps flatten out so that two or three of them make a moving platform level with the floor, allowing passengers to stp on and off without tripping.

The escalator steps then roll on under the floor, and continue their round trip

Rubber handrails move at the same speed as the steps and help passengers keep their balance.

It takes you longer to ride from floor to floor on an escalator than in an elevator. But an escalator can carry manmy times more people from floor to floor each hour than an elevator can.
